Propriétaires Et Locataires Les Origines Du Logement Social En France 1850-1914:

At Home in Postwar France Nicole C. Rudolph, 2015-03-01 After World War II France embarked on a project of modernization which included the development of the modern mass home At Home in Postwar France examines key groups of actors state officials architects sociologists and tastemakers arguing that modernizers looked to the home as a site for social engineering and nation building designers and advocates of the modern home contributed to the democratization of French society and the French home of the Trente Glorieuses as it was built and inhabited was a hybrid product of architects planners and residents understandings of modernity This volume identifies the right to comfort as an invention of the postwar period and suggests that the modern mass home played a vital role in shaping new expectations for well being and happiness

French Urban Planning, 1940-1968 W. Brian Newsome, 2009 French Urban Planning 1940 1968 explores the creation and progressive dismantling of France's centralized authoritarian system of urban and architectural planning Established in the wake of World War II to facilitate the reconstruction and expansion of cities this planning program led to the evolution of large suburban housing estates plagued by inter intra family conflict juvenile delinquency and other social difficulties which sociologists connected to poor planning and design Critics began calling for the democratization of planning to remedy design problems and the government of Charles de Gaulle started reforming planning procedures in the late 1950s and early 1960s This book moves beyond technical and political issues to explore forces of religion gender and class that affected planning practices Key critics and state officials emerged from the Catholic Left Some were women from working class backgrounds and they manipulated gender stereotypes to insert working and middle class women into the design process Sometimes in opposition but often together these reformers initiated the most significant change of architectural and urban planning until the introduction of François Mitterrand's decentralization reforms in the 1980s French Urban Planning 1940 1968 will appeal to scholars and students interested in architectural urban and social trends in twentieth century France

Social Housing in Europe Kathleen Scanlon, Christine Whitehead, Melissa Fernández Arrigoitia, 2014-04-21 All countries aim to improve housing conditions for their citizens but many have been forced by the financial crisis to reduce government expenditure Social housing is at the crux of this tension Policy makers practitioners and academics want to know how other systems work and are looking for something written in clear English where there is a depth of understanding of the literature in other languages and direct contributions from country experts across the continent Social Housing in Europe combines a comparative overview of European social housing written by scholars with in depth chapters written by international housing experts The countries covered include Austria Denmark England France Germany Hungary Ireland The Netherlands and Sweden with a further chapter devoted to CEE countries other than Hungary The book provides an up to date international comparison of social housing policy and practice It offers an analysis of how the social housing system currently works in each country supported by relevant statistics It identifies European trends in the sector and opportunities for innovation and improvement These country specific chapters are accompanied by topical thematic chapters dealing with subjects such as the role of social housing in urban regeneration the privatisation of social housing financing models and the impact of European Union state aid regulations on the definitions and financing of social housing

Insurgent Identities Roger V. Gould, 1995-12 In this important contribution both to the study of social protest and to French social history Roger Gould breaks with previous accounts that portray the Paris Commune of 1871 as a continuation of the class struggles of the 1848 Revolution Focusing on the collective identities framing conflict during these two upheavals and in the intervening period Gould reveals that while class played a pivotal role in 1848 it was neighborhood solidarity that was the decisive organizing force in 1871 The difference was due to Baron Haussmann's massive urban renovation projects between 1852 and 1868 which dispersed workers from Paris's center to newly annexed districts on the outskirts of the city In these areas residence rather than occupation structured social relations Drawing on evidence from trail documents marriage records reports of police spies and the popular press Gould demonstrates that this fundamental rearrangement in the patterns of social life made possible a neighborhood insurgent movement whereas the insurgents of 1848 fought and died in defense of their status as workers those in 1871 did so as members of a besieged urban community A valuable resource for historians and scholars of social movements this work shows that collective identities vary with political circumstances but are nevertheless constrained by social networks Gould extends this argument to make sense of other protest movements and to offer predictions about the dimensions of future social conflict

Housing the Workers, 1850-1914 Martin J. Daunton, 2015-11-19 In the past accounts of housing were dominated by the analysis of the problems of slum property at the bottom of the market and the way in which public housing emerged from attempts to ameliorate the worst conditions in an apparently inevitable process This title questions this perception by focussing on the process of development architectural forms the pattern of ownership property management and control and public policy Dividing Paris Esther da Costa Meyer, 2022-02-15 Dividing Paris Urban Renewal and Social Inequality 1852-1870 offers a new look at the ambitious urban changes that transformed the city of Paris during the Second Empire when Paris became a template for urban renewal in many large cities in Europe North and South America Esther da Costa Meyer looks at the social and historical context of these urban changes what Napoleon III his prefect Georges Eugene Haussman and their team of engineers planned as well as how the diverse and deeply stratified public responded to them Along with broad streets and boulevards intended to enable crowds and merchandise to circulate and also impede the chances of popular insurgency Haussman's project of urban renewal called for ample water supply sewerage and public parks and gardens These changes radically altered the old tightly knit weave of the medieval city serving the needs of the industrial bourgeoisie while forcing the urban poor to the outskirts Dividing Paris is the first architectural history of the city that takes into account the larger part of the urban territory annexed in 1860 a ring of settlements and villages which became increasingly class specific Instead of relating the story of Haussmanization as a top down administrative effort as Haussman's critics and admirers have both tended to do it draws on primary sources especially newspapers and memoirs to investigate the degree to which Parisians' experiences of modernity were class and gender specific and to ask what strategies working class men and women in particular used to cope with and in some cases resist the changing world around them At the same time da Costa Meyer resists the familiar narrative of Paris as capital of the 19th century that has endured at least since Walter Benjamin's famous essay as euro centric and misleading insofar as it fails to situate Paris's urban developments in a broader global context or to acknowledge the extent to which Haussmanization was itself implicated in the broader imperial project on which France was embarked at the time Villes en crise ? et ses disciples en Grande Bretagne Le village of Unity and Mutual Cooperation et le phalanstère se situent en milieu rural l'écart de toute agglomération Pourtant leur forme et leurs fonctions sont marquées de références urbaines Progressivement dans les milieux socialistes français la contradiction entre un discours résolument anti urbain et la réalité sociale et culturelle des individus et des groupes influencés par ces idées constitue un frein au développement du mouvement La fuite de la ville la résolution du problème social par la construction ex nihilo d'une société nouvelle qu'il est facile de qualifier d'utopiste ne satisfont plus des socialistes qui réinvestissent la ville de leur désir et de leur projet Cette prise en compte du fait urbain s'accompagne d'une attention nouvelle au politique mais aussi l'histoire et conduit le mouvement fourriste conduit par Victor Considerant après la mort du fondateur intégrer les rangs de la gauche républicaine en 1848 Son sort sera le celui de la Montagne Au contraire le refus d'une évolution semblable chez Owen aboutit une sclérose du mouvement et sa progressive perte d'influence

Les maisons des mines dans le Nord et le Pas-de-Calais Marc Breitman, Nada Breitman, 2000 Les maisons des mines c'est l'histoire de plus d'un siècle d'architecture et d'urbanisme qui dialogue avec ses inventions techniques ses innovations typologiques et son urbanisme particulier Regroupées en cités construites en briques et parfois en pis ces maisons transforment le paysage d'une région de la frontière belge aux confins du Ternois domestique Gilles Barbey, 1990-01-01 Les utopies sociales du XIXe siècle assignent à l'habitation un rôle clé dans les transformations de la société. Malheureusement, ces prophéties visionnaires sont pour la plupart tombées dans l'oubli aujourd'hui. Leur rôle n'est toutefois utile dans la mesure où elle fait entrevoir des alternatives aux types courants de bâtiments résidentiels.
