, 1993      Resources in Education , 1997      Disconnected William Wresch, 1996 In the Information Age information is power Who produces all that information how does it move around who uses it to what ends and under what constraints Who gets that power And what happens to the people who have no access to it Disconnected begins with a striking vignette of two men One is the thriving manager of a company selling personal computers and computer services The other is just one among thousands of starving laborers He has no way to find the information that might help him find a job he cannot afford newspapers rarely sees television cannot understand the dialect of local radio broadcasts will probably never touch a computer These two men happen to live in Windhoek Namibia but this is not a story about Africa it is a story that could be repeated almost anywhere in the world even next door With vivid anecdotes and data William Wresch contrasts the opportunities of the information rich with the limited prospects of the information poor Surveying the range of information personal public organizational commercial that has become the currency of exchange in today s world he shows how each represents a form of power He analyzes the barriers that keep people information poor geography tyranny illiteracy psychological blinders noise crime Technology alone he demonstrates is not the answer Even the technology rich do not always get access to important information or recognize its value Wresch spells out the grim consequences of information inequity for individuals and society Yet he ends with reasons for optimism and stories of people who are working to pull down the impediments to the flow of information      Higher Education: Handbook of Theory and Research J.C. Smart, 2006-03-30 Published annually since 1985 the Handbook series provides an authoritative compendium of thorough and integrative literature reviews on a diverse array of topics of interest to the higher education scholarly and policy communities      Higher Ed, Inc. Richard S. Ruch, 2003-08-11 Winner of the 2002 Alice L Beeman Research Award for Outstanding Writing about Communications from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education Among higher education institutions in the United States for profit colleges and universities have steadily captured a larger share of the student market A recent trend at for profit institutions is the coupling of job training with accredited academic programs that offer traditional baccalaureate professional and graduate degrees Richard Ruch with administrative experience in both the nonprofit and for profit sectors of higher education takes us inside these new for profit institutions describing who teaches there who enrolls and why and how the for profits are managed and by whom He analyzes their different structures services and outlook on higher learning and training and explains in detail how they make profits from tuition income In Higher Ed Inc Ruch opens up the discussion about for profit higher education from the perspective of a participant observer Focusing on five providers the Apollo Group the University of Phoenix Argosy Education Group the American Schools of Professional Psychology DeVry Inc DeVry Institutes of Technology Education Management Corporation the Art Institutes International and Strayer Education Strayer University he conveys for the first time what it feels like to be inside this new kind of American institution He is also candid about the less attractive aspects of the for profit colleges including what those who enroll may give up As Ruch makes clear the major for profit colleges and universities offer a different approach to higher education one that may be increasingly influential in the future

Unique Campus Contexts Insights for Research and Assessment Jason E. Lane, M. Christopher Brown, II, 2004 This volume summarizes what we know about professional schools transnational campuses proprietary schools religious institutions and corporate universities As the fabric of higher education becomes more complex and as students take advantage of these specialized educational environments conducting meaningful and relevant research becomes a challenge The volume authors argue for the importance of educational context and debunk the one size fits all approach to assessment and evaluation Each chapter examines the critical areas in need of attention and the implications for institutional research and outcomes assessment Those approaching the challenge of research and policy analysis within this collage of diverse institutions and distinctive student populations will find this volume to be a valuable guide This is the 124th issue of the quarterly report New Directions for Institutional Research

Property Ownership and Private Higher Education in China Spring Su, 2011-05-13 Recent decades have witnessed the proliferation in China of huge numbers of private universities and colleges in response to a wide ranging spectrum of socio economic and political demands under the country's flourishing market economy and its wholesale pursuit of decentralization This book explores the issue of property ownership an area which is regarded as an essential element in the attraction into the sector of local private institutions and foreign partnerships as well as in facilitating the future development of the country's existing institutions The focus throughout this book is primarily on the legal economic managerial and financial aspects of the relevant issues as well as other related topics such as consumer protections and fund raising activities A feasibility analysis and discussion is also provided on for profit universities and their potential market niches in China in recognition of the fact that the current regulations which allow private universities to maintain a non profit status whilst actually enjoying profit returns clearly provides some legitimacy to the phenomenon of for profit in disguise It is argued in this book that such quasi profit regulations may further exacerbate profiteering behavior whilst it is also noted that in the short term there is a clear need to provide adequate protections within the apparent hybrid version of an ownership system a system characterized by a mix of capitalism and socialism through the adoption of a definitive legal framework within which economic actors can coordinate their efforts through a mutually understood framework of action Finally it is clear that in the transition from the rule of the people to the rule of law legislation practices and compliance do not always go hand in hand in China thus the healthy development of the educational sector will undoubtedly require some time as well as the introduction of complementary mechanisms for such legislation to be fully enforced in practice This book concludes      Recent Department of Education Publications in ERIC United States. Dept. of Education,1992      Higher Education Abstracts: Fall 1991, Volume 27, Number 1 ,1991      Recent Department of Education Publications in ERIC United States. Department of Education,1992

The Socio-economics of Conversion from War to Peace Lloyd J. Dumas,Amitai Etzioni,2016-09-17 This text discusses the economic social and political implications of redirecting labour and capital from a military based to a post Cold War economy      Preparing for the Workplace National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on Postsecondary Education and Training for the Workplace,1994-02-01 Job training has taken a central place among strategies to boost U S competitiveness in the world and ensure a high standard of living Decision making in this area has a major impact on American workers who do not earn 4 year college degrees fully three quarters of the workforce This timely volume reviews the state of postsecondary training for work in the United States it addresses controversies about federal job policies and programs and outlines a national approach to improved quality and accessibility in workplace preparation The committee focuses on the various types of training individuals need during their working lives Leading experts explore the uneven nature of postsecondary training in the United States and contrast our programs with more comprehensive systems found in other major industrial countries The authors propose what the federal government can and cannot do in improving postsecondary training exploring appropriate roles and responsibilities for federal state and private interests The volume highlights opportunities for improvement in the development of skills standards student financial aid worker retraining second change education and the provision of better information to program managers public officials and trainees With a wealth of insightful commentary and examples this readable volume will be valuable to federal and state policymakers leaders in the field of training educators employers labor unions and interested individuals      Power and Politics Michael D. Parsons,1997-09-25 Provides the most intimate view of federal higher education policymaking since Congress and the Colleges Reveals that despite the lack of power as measured by conventional standards higher education associations have succeeded in convincing Congress to dramatically expand the scope of federal student aid programs under the 1992 Higher Education Act      Retraining for What? ,1993      Degrees of Deception Kevin W. Connell,2016-03-11 Degrees of Deception explains the development and widespread abuses of the for profit higher education sector in America To illustrate the scope and degree of wrongdoing in for profit higher education readers are exposed to the industry in the same sequential order that students experience it in reality A few examples include predatory recruitment targeting military service members questionable quality of programs predatory lending high withdrawal and default rates manipulation of job placement data and strategic lobbying efforts to block comprehensive reform Following this analysis Degrees of Deception offers bold and unprecedented solutions to tackle the crisis in a way that protects millions of student victims and taxpayers indefinitely
