Leading Issues in Competition, Regulation, and Development Paul Cook,2004-01-01 The promotion of liberalized and deregulated markets by bilateral and multilateral aid donors and by global institutions such as the WTO has led to significant attention being paid to competition and regulatory reforms in developing economies The process of reform involves the transfer and diffusion of market models derived from practice and theory in developed countries However in developing countries regulation needs to do more than simply promote competitiveness and consumer interests it also needs to ensure that the market nurtures development By rigorously examining the numerous impacts of regulation this book will help to fill a significant gap in the literature on economic and social development The book now available in paperback draws together contributions from leading experts across a range of disciplines including economics law politics and governance public management and business management The authors begin with an extensive overview of the issues of regulation and competition in developing countries and carefully illustrate the important themes and concepts involved Using a variety of country and sector case studies they move on to focus on the problems of applicability and adaptation that are experienced in the process of transferring best practice policy models from developed to developing countries The book presents a clear agenda for further empirical research and is notable for its rigorous exploration of the links between theory and practice Although there is substantial interest in competition and regulation as yet there has been relatively little investigation of these issues in developing economies This book redresses the balance and will be a valuable resource for researchers academics teachers and students interested in development economics and development studies It will also be of great relevance for practitioners and policymakers working in the fields of competition policy and regulatory reform

Gambling and Speculation Reuven Brenner, Gabrielle A. Brenner, 1990-03-30 Gambling and Speculation takes the long historic perspective of its controversial subject The book offers not only a better understanding of the recent gambling craze but also a fundamental inquiry into human nature and the structure of societies The Brenners argue that the negative image of gamblers and of speculators stems from prejudice whose roots are in the distant forgotten past Legal scholars have frequently confused gambling with speculation and the anti gambling laws were at times erroneously interpreted as implying the prohibitions of contracts in futures and insurance markets One consequence of all this confusion was that during this century both in the United States and England the legislation and law on betting and gambling became ambiguous The authors touch on this issue and make policy recommendations to abolish restrictions on the industry diminish the states role in selling lotteries and at the same time make legal distinctions capable of helping the tiny percentage of players who might be addicted The Brenners recommendations on gambling are based on their conclusion that gamblers are neither mentally ill nor criminals and that gambling does not lead its practitioners to poverty Rather it is the other way around some of the poor and the frustrated gamble Looking at gambling in this way leads to questions about the nature of society What do the fortunate do for those who are not What is society s obligation to people who fall behind in the game of life Answers to these questions require a discussion on the principles of equality capitalism the role of religious influence on society topics that the Brenners have discussed in their previous studies and they do so here too putting gambling within its proper historical context

Evolutionary Economics and Creative Destruction J. Stanley Metcalfe, 2006 The central theme of this book is competition treated as an evolutionary process in which the focus is upon economic change and not economic equilibrium This theme is explored by linking together differences in economic behaviour with the role of markets as co ordinating institutions In this picture innovation plays a central role as a primary source of differential behaviour of firms and the purpose of the book is to identify the consequences of these differences for competition and competitive advantage

Dankbaar, John Groenewegen, H. Schenk, 2012-12-06 This book contains the key note lectures and a selection of papers that were presented at the 15th Conference of the European Association for Research in Industrial Economics EARIE held under the auspices of GRASP at Erasmus University Rotterdam in 1988 plus an introductory chapter by the Editors Upon suggestions by the Editors all papers have been revised for this book some more extensively than others Robin Marris has added to his lecture a synopsis of the contributions to the Round Table on the Micro Macro Interface which he chaired during the Conference The papers cover issues that seem to be both interesting and relevant for the 1990s While some of the papers are cast in a rather established research frame enabling the use of regular academic routines others are first attempts at delineating the contours of areas that are peripheral to what is often considered as the core of Industrial Organization In their introductory chapter the Editors set forth that a neglect of those areas may well relegate Industrial Organization to social irrelevancy Therefore it is hoped that the book will also contribute to a reflection on the main lines of Industrial Organization research for the 1990s thus helping to create a healthy perspective for this part of economics at a
