Harvard medical school (Cambridge, U.S.A.). Symposium (1958), Dr. Stanley Cobb, 1961 Sensory Deprivation Philip E. Kubzansky, Herbert P. Leiderman, 1965 Torture and Impunity Alfred W. McCoy, 2012-08-24 Many Americans have condemned the enhanced interrogation techniques used in the War on Terror as a transgression of human rights But the United States has done almost nothing to prosecute past abuses or prevent future violations Tracing this knotty contradiction from the 1950s to the present historian Alfred W McCoy probes the political and cultural dynamics that have made impunity for torture a bipartisan policy of the U S government During the Cold War McCoy argues the U S Central Intelligence Agency covertly funded psychological experiments designed to weaken a subject's resistance to interrogation After the 9 11 terrorist attacks the CIA revived these harsh methods while U S media was flooded with seductive images that normalized torture for many Americans Ten years later the U S had failed to punish the perpetrators or the powerful who commanded them and continued to exploit intelligence extracted under torture by surrogates from Somalia to Afghanistan Although Washington has publicly distanced itself from torture disturbing images from the prisons at Abu Ghraib and Guantanamo are seared into human memory doing lasting damage to America's moral authority as a world leader A Question of Torture Alfred McCoy, 2007-04-01 A startling exposé of the CIA's development and spread of psychological torture from the Cold War to Abu Ghraib and beyond In this revelatory account of the CIA's secret fifty year effort to develop new forms of torture historian Alfred W McCoy uncovers the deep disturbing roots of recent scandals at Abu Ghraib and Guantanamo Far from aberrations as the White House has claimed A Question of Torture shows that these abuses are the product of a long standing covert program of interrogation Developed at the cost of billions of dollars the CIA's method combined sensory deprivation and self inflicted pain to create a revolutionary psychological approach the first innovation in torture in centuries The simple techniques involving isolation hooding hours of standing extremes of hot and cold and manipulation of time constitute an all out assault on the victim's senses destroying the basis of personal identity McCoy follows the years of research which he reveals compromised universities and the U S Army and the method's dissemination from Vietnam through Iran to Central America He traces how after 9 11 torture became Washington's weapon of choice in both the CIA's global prisons and in torture friendly countries to which detainees are dispatched Finally McCoy argues that information extracted by coercion is worthless making a case for the legal approach favored by the FBI Scrupulously documented and grippingly told A Question of Torture is a devastating indictment of inhumane practices that have spread throughout the intelligence system damaging American's laws military and international standing Readings in Rehabilitation Counseling Timothy F. Field, Benson Hecker, 1974 What's Wrong with the Poor? Mical Raz, 2013-11-11 In the 1960s

policymakers and mental health experts joined forces to participate in President Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty. In her insightful interdisciplinary history, physician and historian Mical Raz examines the interplay between psychiatric theory and social policy throughout that decade ending with President Richard Nixon's 1971 veto of a bill that would have provided universal day care. She shows that this cooperation between mental health professionals and policymakers was based on an understanding of what poor men, women, and children lacked. This perception was rooted in psychiatric theories of deprivation focused on two overlapping sections of American society: the poor and African Americans, who were disproportionately represented among America's poor. They were seen as having practically nothing. Raz analyzes the political and cultural context that led child mental health experts, educators, and policymakers to embrace this deprivation-based theory and its translation into liberal social policy. Deprivation theory, she shows, continues to haunt social policy today, profoundly shaping how both health professionals and educators view children from low-income and culturally and linguistically diverse homes.

Loading the Silence: Australian Sound Art in the Post-Digital Age Linda Ioanna Kouvaras, 2016-05-13. The experimentalist phenomenon of noise as constituting art in much twentieth-century music paradoxically reached its zenith in Cage's silent piece 4'33". But much post-1970s musical endeavour with an experimentalist telos, collectively known as sound art, has displayed a postmodern need to load modernism's degree zero. After contextualizing experimentalism from its inception in the early twentieth century, Dr. Linda Kouvaras's Loading the Silence: Australian Sound Art in the Post-Digital Age explores the ways in which selected sound art works demonstrate creatively how sound is embedded within local, national, gendered, and historical environments. Taking Australian music as its primary but not sole focus, the book not only covers discussions of technological advancement but also engages with aesthetic standpoints through numerous interviews, theoretical developments, analysis, and cultural milieux for a contemporary Australian and wider postmodern context. Developing new methodologies for synergies between musicology and cultural studies, the book uncovers a new post-postmodern aesthetic trajectory which Kouvaras locates as developing over the past two decades. The altermodern Australian sound art is here put firmly on the map of international debates about contemporary music, providing a standard reference and valuable resource for practitioners in the artform, music critics, scholars, and educators.

Listening to the Candle Peter Dale Scott, 1992. Listen To The Candle is a book-length reflection on the poet's life. Listening follows, as Jakarta is the second step in a projected trilogy. Self-knowledge is more at issue than self-alienation; art perhaps overshadows politics. Rilke is more the poem's guide than Pound.

Empty Fortress Bruno Bettelheim, 1967. Focusing on three case histories, the author attempts to reveal the problems and struggles of the autistic child.
