Person-Environment Practice Susan P. Kemp, James K. Whittaker, Elizabeth M. Tracy, 2024-11-01 Person Environment Practice addresses a core but long neglected dimension in social work and human services practice accurate environmental assessment and strategic environmental intervention Despite the centrality of person environment as a key construct in direct practice the domain of environmental assessment intervention has received relatively little systematic attention in the practice literature For a variety of reasons the core focus of direct practice assessment and change strategies has centered more on person than environment This book seeks to redress that imbalance Ironically the relative lack of attention to environmentally oriented practice persists even as current demands of practice fall increasingly under the rubric of what we here call environmental intervention defined as both action in the environment and the process of transforming individual and collective perspectives through critical analysis of the impact of environmental conditions The authors argue that the ability to understand environment from the client's perspective and to function effectively in the environmental domain is central to many emergent areas of practice such as practice with extended families and personal networks practice from a strengths perspective and culturally competent practice In Person Environment Practice the authors offer a coherent critique and overview of environmental assessment and intervention congruent with the demands of both newly emerging and established interpersonal helping approaches within social work's domain Robert Halpern of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Studies in Child Development described the book as as clear thoughtful and subtle a discussion of how to consider the environment in interpersonal helping as I have seen in the literature and Anthony Maluccio of Boston College called the book a timely and exciting contribution with appreciation and respect for social work practices and qualities of inspiration as well as intellectual stimulation Susan P Kemp is assistant professor School of Social Work The University of Washington Seattle James K Whittaker is professor School of Social Work The University of Washington Seattle Elizabeth M Tracy is associate professor Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences Case Western Reserve University Cleveland Ohio

Assessing Outcomes in Child and Family Services Anthony N. Maluccio, 2017-11-30 In this collective portrait editors and authors do not attempt to draw systematic country by country comparisons Given the magnitude of the issues they believed that it would be inappropriate to paint with too broad a stroke What they have accomplished however is to codify and identify what the participants repeatedly noted in regard to issues and difficulties inherent in conducting outcome evaluation These include varying definitions of outcome complexities in measuring outcomes of particular interventions with different groups of consumers and documenting the effectiveness of the intervention the tendency to focus on evaluation of process more than outcome the challenge of involving practitioners in the evaluation task in part because its value is unclear to them or perceived as distant or untrustworthy the typical inadequacy of resources available for systematic evaluation and the need to inject rigor into the design and execution of evaluation projects The authors demonstrate strong conviction about sharing research expertise across national boundaries learning through each other how to cope with organizational impediments to cross national collaboration and strengthening the interaction between practice and research Their contributions suggest that there is wide interest in pursuing cross national collaboration In recent years largely in response to demands by their funding sources for accountability assessment of performance and cost effectiveness researchers in human services have been devoting increased attention to outcome evaluation Limited attention however has been given to the findings of evaluation studies conducted in different countries The present volume has been organized and edited to address the task of learning from outcome research across the world Its goal an extension of a major goal of the human services in any one country is to improve life chances of vulnerable children and youth Delivering Home-based Services Susan F. Allen, Elizabeth M. Tracy, 2009. Service providers are increasingly called upon to serve clients at home, a setting even a seasoned professional can find difficult to negotiate. From monitoring the health of older populations to managing paroled offenders, preventing child abuse, and reunifying families, home-based services require models that ensure positive outcomes and address the ethical dilemmas that might arise in such sensitive contexts. The contributors to this volume are national experts in diverse fields of social work practice, policy, and research. Treating the home as an ecological setting that guides human development and family interaction, they present rationales for and overviews of evidence-based models across an array of populations and fields of practice. Part 1 provides historical background and contemporary applications for home-based services, highlighting ethical, administrative, and supervision issues and summarizing the social policies that shape service delivery. Part 2 addresses home-based practice in such fields as child and adult mental health, school social work, and hospice care, detailing the particular population being treated, the policy and agency context, theories, and empirical data, and practice guidelines. Part 3, the editors present a unifying framework and suggest future directions for home-based social work.

Solution-based Casework William C. Barrett, 2020-08-13. Solution-based casework is an approach to assessment, case planning, and case management that combines what we know from clinical social work with what we value about sound social work practice It is grounded in family centered social work and draws from clinical approaches within social work and mental health By integrating problem and solution focused approaches that form the clinical and social work traditions treatment partnerships are more easily formed between family caseworker and service provider Solution Based Casework is a skill based practice oriented text that provides the specific guidance that students and new practitioners need in order to make sense quickly of the complex tasks of assessment and case planning in child welfare The book flows out of a long practice experience and was developed in consultation with workers and supervisors who were attempting to remedy problems viewed as contributing to recurrent abuse and neglect It seeks to end adversarial relationships in casework and advocates case plans based on specific outcome skills rather than on those written with vague outcome goals measuring attendance in counseling It serves as a common conceptual framework for integrating disparate segments of a response network thereby allowing all providers in a therapeutic system to work toward common goals The text is divided into three sections In Section I the conceptual history and theoretical foundations of solution based casework are presented so that the reader can place this approach to casework within the ongoing professional conversation about what constitutes sound practice Section II addresses issues of assessment and case planning Section III focuses on case management issues and how treatment team members experience a solution based casework approach

HIV, AIDS, and the Law Donald Dickson, 2017-09-04 Although morbidity among HIV AIDS victims has decreased the rate of new infections has remained steady for several years substantially increasing the likelihood that this epidemic will continue and expand as a concern for social workers and their clientele both of whom will need to be kept informed of the complex laws governing the milieu and the consequences of the disease This is certainly the case with its spread throughout Asia and Africa In this new work the author draws upon statutes and court decisions from across the United States to provide a comprehensive and current picture of the many facets of HIV AIDS law including health policy confidentiality privacy bioethics the workplace and criminal law and corrections The volume of legal medical social science and popular literature pertaining to HIV AIDS that has been published over the past two decades is staggering Hence any addition to this collection needs some justification What Dickson offers is different from what has preceded Rather than one more contribution to the extensive legal or social science literature this book attempts to integrate the perspectives from two fields law and social work The hope is that this will give social workers practitioners and teachers a better understanding of one of the major issues that may face them in their work with patients and clients every day To date although there is extensive HIV and AIDS related literature in social work and the social sciences it is primarily focused on social work practice issues Where law has been introduced in these works it often is narrow in focus and given the rapid changes in the field no longer up to date This book does not purport to discuss all legal issues in all jurisdictions relating to HIV AIDS but rather to choose selectively those that have particular relevance for social work and social policy The author has placed reliance on those published medical works cited with approval in the legal and Social Workers'
