5. The macro environment

5.1. Management structure of Ministry of Education. The Swaziland Ministry of Education (Ministry of Education) is divided into four divisions of professional, planning, finance and administration. The Director of Education heads up the professional division and focuses on all professional matters and issues of service delivery. This directorate consists of three Chief Inspectors responsible for primary, secondary and teacher education that forms the professional support unit for guidance and counselling.

The planning division is managed by a senior education planner. This planning division is responsible for incremental budgeting and works with statistical data provided by the Central Statistics office.

Regional Education Officers (REO) together with senior inspectors is located in the Ministry of Education's regional offices. They report to the Chief inspector for primary and secondary education. REO's are tasked with ensuring direct support for education services and quality assurance thereof. They work in tandem with communities through the school committees and regional education boards. This serves as a communication medium between the Ministry of Education and regions and schools.

The Ministry of Education (1999, p. 38) provides the following guideline on management of the school education system.

1. Schools are supervised by an inspector.
2. The ministry will manage standard of performance of private sector education whilst de regularization of services to private sector education.
3. The Education Act, Teaching Service Act and Regulations and the schools accounting regulations are mechanisms to manage and legislate education.

Plucker,Scott J. Peters,2020-01-15 2017 Texas Association for Gifted and Talented Legacy Scholar Book Award 2017 National Association of Gifted Children Scholar Book of the Year Award In Excellence Gaps in Education Jonathan A Plucker and Scott J Peters shine a spotlight on excellence gaps the achievement gaps among subgroups of students performing at the highest levels of achievement Much of the focus of recent education reform has been on closing gaps in achievement between students from different racial ethnic or socioeconomic backgrounds by bringing all students up to minimum levels of proficiency Yet issues related to excellence gaps have been largely absent from discussions about how to improve our schools and communities Plucker and Peters argue that these significant gaps reflect the existence of a persistent talent underclass

in the United States among African American Hispanic Native American and poor students resulting in an incalculable loss of potential among our fastest growing populations Drawing on the latest research and a wide range of national and international data the authors outline the scope of the problem and make the case that excellence gaps should be targeted for elimination They identify promising interventions for talent development already underway in schools and provide a detailed review of potential strategies including universal screening flexible grouping targeted programs and psychosocial interventions Excellence Gaps in Education has the potential for changing our national conversation about equity and excellence and bringing fresh attention to the needs of high potential students from underrepresented backgrounds The
