Promoting Health Institute of Medicine, Division of Health Promotion and Disease Prevention, Committee on Capitalizing on Social Science and Behavioral Research to Improve the Public's Health, 2000-02-01 At the dawn of the twenty first century Americans enjoyed better overall health than at any other time in the nation's history Rapid advancements in medical technologies breakthroughs in understanding the genetic underpinnings of health and ill health improvements in the effectiveness and variety of pharmaceuticals and other developments in biomedical research have helped develop cures for many illnesses and improve the lives of those with chronic diseases By itself however biomedical research cannot address the most significant challenges to improving public health Approximately half of all causes of mortality in the United States are linked to social and behavioral factors such as smoking diet alcohol use sedentary lifestyle and accidents Yet less than five percent of the money spent annually on U S health care is devoted to reducing the risks of these preventable conditions Behavioral and social interventions offer great promise but as yet their potential has been relatively poorly tapped Promoting Health identifies those promising areas of social science and behavioral research that may address public health needs It includes 12 papers commissioned from some of the nation's leading experts that review these issues in detail and serves to assess whether the knowledge base of social and behavioral interventions has been useful or could be useful in the development of broader public health interventions Mindfulness,

Mind-body Exercises, and Health Promotion Guodong Zhang, Yang Cao, Zi Yan, 2025-02-14 High intensity sports and physical exercise have been linked to various health benefits However when it comes to increasing longevity these activities may not be an ideal option for the general population Mind body exercise which combines physical exercise with mindfulness may be more effective in promoting and restoring health especially for those with chronic symptoms or poor health conditions Many mind body exercises such as Taichi Qigong Chan Chuang and Yoga have their roots in Eastern cultures They have gained popularity around the world and became a new fashion in the post COVID 19 era These exercises typically help practitioners shift their focus from the outside world past or future to the present moment through gentle body movements Mind body exercises emphasize the body's innate ability to heal itself By disconnecting from the noisy outside world the body is given the opportunity to heal This aligns with the classic belief in Chinese medicine that the body itself is the best medicine
