Pronoms Et Visages:

Pronoms et visages M. Dupuis, 1996-01-31 Emmanuel Levinas has written one of the most original philosophies of our times and we have the responsibility to read it in the perspective of a real interpretation. That comprehension or embracing of the texts manifests the philosophical respect for the major work see Sophist 242a. From this point of view we try to show the pragmatic structure of the ethical relationship the grammar of the Other exposed by a fundamental ethics structured as a language. The immanent reading of Levinas texts opens to many other already classical interpretations and new perspectives of understanding and application. Pronoms Et Visages : Lecture D'Emmanuel Levinas ,1996 Meaning and Language: Phenomenological Perspectives Filip Mattens, 2010-02-18 The work aims at presenting new in depth research on core topics of Husserl's thinking related to language e.g. meaning sign ideality supplemented with a variety of original phenomenological reflections on pre linguistic experience concept formation and the limitations of verbal expression. In doing so it supplies us the first anthology that focuses on Husserl's thinking in relation to language. Most of the contributions to this volume are based on research originally presented at the Husserl Arbeitstage which took place at the Husserl Archives Leuven in November 2006. In addition two other articles have been added in order to supplement the themes of the presentations.

Husserl and Heidegger on Being in the World Søren Overgaard, 2004-04-30 It is a study of the phenomenological philosophies of Husserl and Heidegger. Through a critical discussion including practically all previously published English and German literature on the subject the aim is to present a thorough and evenhanded account of the relation between the two. The book provides a detailed presentation of their respective projects and methods and examines several of their key phenomenological analyses centering on the phenomenon of being in the world. It offers new perspectives on Husserlian and Heideggerian phenomenology e.g. concerning the importance of Husserl's phenomenology of the body the relationship between the Husserlian concept of constitution and Heidegger's notion of transcendence as well as in its argument that being designates the central phenomenon for both phenomenologists. Though the study sacrifices nothing in terms of argumentative rigor or interpretative detail it is written in such a way as to be accessible and rewarding to non specialists and specialists alike.

Phänomenologie der schwachen Phantasie Dieter Lohmar, 2007-11-29 This book is an effort to bring genetic phenomenological analyses in contact with empirical psychology neurology cognitive science and research in primate cognition. The conclusion reached is that most higher order achievements of our mind might in fact be accomplished without language in the low level system of phantasmatic imagination. This leads to an inclusive theory of the subject which allows us to understand how higher organized animals like primates can think. Seeing the Self Einar Øverenget, 1998-09-30 die Augen hat mir Husserl eingesetzt 1 he aim of Twentieth century phenomenology is to provide a non T psychologistic interpretation of subjectivity. Husserl agrees with Frege to adopt psychologism is to give up truth. But this should not prevent us from investigating the subjective perspective. On the contrary Husserl thinks that an appropriate rejection of psychologism must be able to show how propositions are correlated to and grounded in subjective intuitions without thereby reducing them to psychological phenomena Obviously this calls for an interpretation of subjectivity that makes a sharp distinction between the subjective perspective and the psychological realm Phenomenology is devoted to the development of a notion of subjectivity that is in accordance with our experience of the world A fundamental tenet of phenomenology is that philosophy should not dispute this experience but rather account for it Hence phenomenology must avoid a notion of subjectivity in which it becomes a problem to account for how a subject can ever hook up with the world In other words a phenomenological interpretation of subjectivity must radically disassociate itself from what is often referred to as a worldless Cartesian subject a res cogitans But neither can an interpretation of Subjectivity consistently advocate a position according to which the human order is described only in the categories appropriate to the physical order Such an interpretation is obviously not compatible with the phenomenal basis for undertaking this very interpretation that is our experience of the world

The Inhuman Condition Rudi Visker, 2006-01-27 At the origin of this volume a simple question what to make of that surprisingly monotonous series of statements produced by our societies and our philosophers that all converge in one theme the importance of difference To clarify the meaning of the difference at stake here we have tried to rephrase it in terms of the two major and mutually competing paradigms provided by the history of phenomenology only to find both of them equally unable to accommodate this difference without violence Neither the ethical nor the ontological approach can account for a subject that insists on playing a part of its own rather than following the script provided for it by either Being or the Good What appears to be from a Heideggerian or Levinasian perspective an unwillingness to open up to what offers to deliver us from the condition of subjectivity is analysed in these pages as a structure in its own right Far from being the wilful indifferent and irresponsible being its critics have portrayed it to be the so called postmodern subject is essentially finite not even able to assume the transcendence to which it owes its singularity This inability is not a lack it points instead to a certain unthought shared by both Heidegger and Levinas which sets the terms for a discussion no longer our own Instead of blaming Heidegger for underdeveloping being with we should rather stress that his account of mineness may be in the light of contemporary philosophy what stands most in need of revision And instead of hailing Levinas as the critic whose stress on the alterity of the Other corrects Heidegger's existential solipsism the problems into which Levinas runs in defining that alterity call for a different diagnosis and a corresponding change in the course that phenomenology has taken since Instead of preoccupying itself with the invisible we should focus on the structures of visibility that protect us from its terror The result An account of difference that is neither ontological nor ethical but m ontological and that can help us understand some of the problems our societies have come to face racism sexism multiculturalism pluralism And in the wake of this an unexpected defence of what is at stake in postmodernism and in the question it has refused to take lightly who are we Finally an homage to Arendt and Lyotard who if read through each other's lenses give an exact articulation to the question with which our age struggles how to think the human condition once one realizes that there is an inhuman side to it which instead of being its mere negation turns out to be that without which it would come to lose its humanity Founding Community H.P. Steeves, 1998-02-28 The direction of this text is both phenomenological and prescriptive as it attempts to provide a phenomenological foundation for communitarian ethical theory It argues that the Ego and the Other arise together in sense and we are committed to community in a foundational way Étude sur l'ancienne abréviation des pronoms personnels régimes dans les langues romanes Johan Melander, 1928 Sémioétique du portrait* Anne
