Property Development Europe Case Studies In Innovation:

Property Development Europe Urban Land Institute, 2003 Showcasing projects that are both innovative and successful in their markets this book describes best practices in European property development Case studies of residential retail office waterfront performing arts and congress centers include a wealth of color photos site plans cost and sales data and an inside look at how the projects were developed Countries represented include England Germany France Spain Finland Turkey Hungary Denmark Ireland Czech Republic Belgium and Holland Innovation, Technology Policy and Regional Development Tim Turpin, 2002-01-01 This book is the result of a comparative investigation that contrasts micro systems of innovation in several regions of China and Australia two vastly different countries in terms of traditions industry structures political systems and economic organisation Six regional studies comprehensively document the experiences of firms engaged in product or process innovation The book also examines the institutions that support research and development and the impact of government policies on innovation in each of the regions studied The case studies present original and informative insights into the different ways in which local national and transnational interests interact and influence regional development These findings support the view that local innovation systems are emerging with quite different structural characteristics The authors conclude that local national and transnational dimensions are continually redefining and aligning themselves in novel and interesting ways They highlight the importance of identifying these structural relationships in order to encourage dynamic innovation to occur This they argue has important implications for policymakers concerned with the promotion of innovation in regional areas Urban Land, 2007 OECD Skills Studies Innovative and Entrepreneurial

Universities in Latin America OECD, Inter-American Development Bank, 2022-10-04 The review examines how higher education institutions are supporting innovation and entrepreneurship in their surrounding communities The study focuses on eleven universities located in six countries in Latin America Chile Colombia Mexico Brazil Argentina and Uruguay

Creative Industries and Innovation in Europe Luciana Lazzeretti, 2013 In recent years the study of creativity has shifted from analysis of culture as an end in itself to one of economic enhancement and its capability to generate wealth and promote economic development Increasingly European cities and regions are using the arts to fuel wellbeing and reinvigorate economies after the comparative demise of more traditional industry and manufacturing A growing literature is starting to highlight the innovation capacity of cultural and creative industries CCIs as they intersect the innovation processes of other manufacturing and services sectors with an innovative and creative output Culture and creativity may be a strategic weapon to exit the present crisis and redefine an economic model of sustainable development This book brings together a set of multidisciplinary contributions to investigate the kaleidoscope of European creativity focussing on CCIs and the innovations connected with them The two main questions that this volume aims to address are How can we identify map and define CCIs in Europe And how do they contribute to innovation and sustainable growth The volume is split into two parts The first part deals with the definition measurement and mapping of the geography of European CCIs according to a local economic approach focussing on Italy Spain the UK Austria Denmark and France This section surveys the different industrial typologies and spatial patterns which underline a significant dissimilarity between the North and the South of Europe mainly due to the difference between heritage driven and technology driven countries The section concludes with a case study on a Japanese creative city The second part collects some interesting cases of innovation generated in creative spaces such as cities of art or creative clusters and networks This entails the study of innovations among creative and non creative sectors e g laser technologies in conservation of works of art and design networks in Italy and across European and non European countries e g Spaghetti Western movies in the US or visual artists in New Zealand Finally an innovation capacity of culture that can regenerate mature sectors e g the French food supply chain and Swiss watch Valley or combine the creative and green economics paradigms e g the green creative cities in North Europe is analyzed This book will appeal to academics scholars and practitioners of urban and regional studies cultural and creative economics and managerial and organization studies

Innovations in European Rural Landscapes Hubert Wiggering,Hans-Peter Ende,Andrea Knierim,Marina Pintar,2010-01-08 Rural regions in Europe are evolving under powerful boundary conditions such as globalisation socio cultural transformations and climate change which in turn increases natural hazards The regional land use and the evolvement of landscapes is increasingly shaped trends and drivers like infrastructural energy or housing needs globalised agricultural markets and consumption habits To face these challenges and to balance competitiveness with social cohesion the InnoLand research and development network induces and accompanies promising land use innovations at the landscape scale in 10 European rural regions Based on a common conceptual approach among the InnoLand partners the development and implementation of new competitive strategies is conducted as a science practice dialogue with strong commitment to the regional policy design for rural development With this book the network partners provide an overview and a comparative analysis of selected experimental regional approaches and give examples for the successful tackling of future opportunities and threats

The University and the City J. B. Goddard, Paul Vallance, 2013 Universities are being seen as key urban institutions by researchers and policy makers around the world They are global players with significant local direct and indirect impacts on employment the built environment business innovation and the wider society The University and the City explores these impacts and in the process seeks to expose the extent to which universities are just in the city or part of the city and actively contributing to its development The precise expression of the emerging relationship between universities and cities is highly contingent on national and local circumstances The book is therefore grounded in original research into the experience of the UK and selected English provincial cities with a focus on the role of universities in addressing the challenges of environmental sustainability health and cultural development These case studies are set in the context of reviews of the international evidence on the links between universities and the urban economy their role in place making and in the local community The book reveals the need to build a stronger bridge between policy and practice in the fields of urban development and higher education underpinned by sound theory if the full potential of universities as urban institutions is to be realised Those working in the field of development therefore need to acquire a better understanding of universities and those in higher education of urban development The insights from both sides contained in The University and the City provide a platform on which to build well founded university and city partnerships across the world

Environmental and Energy Law Karen Makuch, Ricardo Pereira, 2012-10-01 Despite bringing prosperity industrialisation generally leads to increasing levels of pollution which has a detrimental impact on the environment In response legislation which seeks to control or prevent such impact has become common Similarly climate change and energy security have become major drivers for the regulatory regimes that have emerged in the energy field Given the global or regional scope of many environmental problems international cooperation is often necessary to ensure such legislation is effective The EU and the UK have contributed to the development of the environmental and energy law regimes currently in force spanning across international transnational and national levels At the same time practical responses to environmental and energy problems have largely been the focus of engineers scientists and other technical experts Environmental Energy Law attempts to bridge the knowledge gap between legal developments designed to achieve environmental and or energy related objectives and the practical scientific and technical considerations applicable to the same environmental problems In particular it attempts to convey a broad range of topical issues in environmental and energy law from climate and energy regulation technology innovation and transfer to pollution control environmental governance and enforcement In addition the book outlines key sector specific legal regimes including water waste and air quality management focusing on issues or topics that are particularly relevant to both environmental and energy lawyers and engineering science and technology oriented professionals and students In this vein the book guides the reader on some basic practical applications of the law within scientific engineering and other practical settings The book will be useful to all those working or studying in the environmental or energy arena including law students legal professionals engineering and science students and professionals By adopting a multi disciplinary approach to environmental and energy law the book embraces all readerships and helps to address the often thorny problem of communication between scientists engineers lawyers and policy makers
