Herold,2021-08-06 In The Democratic Soul Aaron L Herold argues that liberal democracy s current crisis of extreme polarization rising populism and disillusionment with political institutions must be understood as the culmination of a deeper dissatisfaction with the liberal Enlightenment Major elements of both the Left and the Right now reject the Enlightenment's emphasis on rights as theoretically unfounded and morally undesirable and have sought to recover a contrasting politics of obligation But this has re-opened questions about the relationship between politics and religion long thought settled To address our situation Herold examines the political thought of Spinoza and Tocqueville two authors united in support of liberal democracy but with differing assessments of the Enlightenment Through an original reading of Spinoza's Theologico Political Treatise Herold uncovers the theological foundation of liberal democracy a comprehensive moral teaching rehabilitating human self-interest denigrating devotion as a relic of superstition and cultivating a pride in living acting and thinking for oneself In his political vision Spinoza articulates our highest hopes for liberalism for he is confident such an outlook will produce both intellectual flourishing and a paradoxical recovery of community But Spinoza's project contains tensions which continue to trouble democracy today As Herold shows via a new interpretation of Tocqueville's Democracy in America the dissatisfactions now destabilizing democracy can be traced to the Enlightenment's failure to find a place for religious longings whose existence it largely denied In particular Tocqueville described a natural human desire for a kind of happiness found at least partly in self-sacrifice Because modernity weakens religion precisely as it makes democracy stronger than liberalism it permits this desire to find new and dangerous outlets Tocqueville thus sought to design a new political science which could rectify this problem and which therefore remains indispensable today in recovering the moderation lacking in contemporary politics
