Road Of Her Own Womens Journeys In The West:

Roads of Her Own Alexandra Ganser, 2009 Reading Jack Kerouac's classic On the Road through Virginia Woolf's canonical A Room of One's Own the author of this book examines a genre in North American literature which despite its popularity has received little attention in literary and cultural criticism women's road narratives The study shows how women's literature has inscribed itself into the American discourse of the Whitmanesque open road or more generally the freedom of the road Women writers have participated in this powerful American myth yet at the same time also have rejected that myth as fundamentally based on gendered and racial/ethnic hierarchies and power structures and modified it in the process of writing back to it The book analyzes stories about female runaways outlaws questers adventurers kidnappers biker chicks travelling saleswomen and picaras and makes theoretical observations on the debates regarding discourses of spatiality and mobility debates which have defined the so called spatial turn in the humanities The analytical concept of transdifference is introduced to theorize the dissonant plurality of social and cultural affiliations as well as the narrative tensions produced by such pluralities in order to better understand the textual worlds of women's multiple belongings as they are present in these writings Roads of Her Own is thus not only situated in the broader context of a constructivist cultural studies but also by discussing narrative mobility under the sign of gender combines insights from social theory and philosophy feminist cultural geography and literary studies Key names and concepts Doreen Massey Rosi Braidotti Literary Studies Spatial Turn Gendered Space and Mobility Nomadism Road writing Transdifference American Culture Popular Culture Women's Literature after the Second Wave Quest Picara A Road of Her Own Marlene Blessing, 2002 Twenty Western women writers describe their inner and outer journeys in the West by car foot and dogsled They write of obstacles to women travelers unfulfilled dreams adventures in the wilderness and long distance runs Blessing is a published author and editor in chief at a publishing company Your Life is a Book Brenda Peterson, Sarah Jane Freymann, 2014-10-14 Learn how to write your memoir and get published with the help of two well known publishing professionals Everyone has a story to tell Your Life is a Book guides budding writers through the transformative process of memoir writing to publication In addition to exploring the unique elements of crafting a memoir story arc point of view dialogue where to start not the beginning Your Life is a Book also focuses on the self exploration awareness and understanding that this emotional literary project triggers With proven writing exercises and prompts this book is a practical and enlightening guide to perfecting the art of memoir writing Montana, 2003 Women's Diaries of the Westward Journey Lillian Schlissel, 2011-08-03 An expanded edition of one of the most original and provocative works of American history of the last decade which documents the pioneering experiences and grit of American frontier women The Ladies' Repository, 1870 Women Writers of the American West, 1833-1927 Nina Baym, 2012-08-17 This book recovers the names and works of women who wrote about the American West during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries some of them long forgotten and others better known such as Willa Cather and Mary Austin Holley It reveals how the authors showed women making lives for themselves in the West how they represented the diverse region and how they represented themselves Wheels of Her Own Carla R. Lesh,2024-04-03 Women used automobiles as soon as they had access to them Black Indigenous and White American women utilized the automobile to improve their quality of life and achieve greater freedom These women shared unique concerns and common aims as they negotiated their way through a time when advocacy for social change was undergoing a resurgence The years that brought the automobile to the United States 1893 1929 also brought increased legal and social restrictions based on racism and gender stereotypes For women the automobile was a useful tool as they worked to improve their quality of life The automobile provided a means for Black Indigenous and White women to pull away from limitations and work toward greater freedom Exploring these key issues and more this book is a history and social exploration of women and the automobile during the early automotive era From Peking to Mandalay: A Journey from North China to Burma through Tibetan Ssuch'uan and Yunnan Sir Reginald Fleming Johnston,2020-09-28 The journey of which an account is given in the following pages was not undertaken in the special interests of geographical or other science nor in the service of any Government My chief object was to gratify a long felt desire to visit those portions of the Chinese Empire which are least known to Europeans and to acquire some knowledge of the various tribes subject to China that inhabit the wild regions of Chinese Tibet and north western Yunnan Though nearly every part of the Eighteen Provinces has in recent years been visited and described by European travellers my route between Tachienlu and Li Chiang was one which so far as I am aware no British subject had ever traversed before me and of which no description in book form has hitherto appeared in any European language From the ethnological point of view the Chinese Far West to which the greater part of this book is devoted is one of the most interesting regions in the world and presents problems the solution of which would settle many of the vexed questions relating to the origin and inter relations of the Asiatic peoples As for its geographical interest it may be sufficient to say here that the principalities of Chala and Muli contain what are probably the highest spots inhabited by man on the face of the globe and that several of the passes crossed by my little caravan are loftier than the highest of the passes existing along the route traversed by the British expedition to Lhasa My own contributions to geographical and ethnological lore are of the slenderest but if I can persuade some of my readers that Tibetan Ssuch uan and western Yunnan are worth visiting be it only for the glory of their mountain scenery I shall consider that my book has fulfilled the most useful purpose to which it aspires For those who are seized by a craving to revert for a time to something like the nomadic life of our remote forefathers or to pass like the old Hindu ascetics into the homeless state there can be no country in the world more full of charm than some of the wilder and less peopled regions of the Chinese Empire There are enormous areas in that country covered with primeval forests in which man's foot has never trod lofty mountains whose peaks are crowned with sparkling diadems of eternal snow grand and savage gorges in which Nature has carved for herself in indelible letters the story of the world's youth and gloomy chasms through which rush the mighty rivers that carry to the Indian Ocean and the Pacific snows that melted on the white roof of the world And amid all this magnificence and desolation there are lovely valleys and stretches of garden land that might have been chosen as the Edens of a hundred mythologies and which in historic times have been the homes of religious recluses and poets who like others of their kind in Western lands found in silence and solitude a refuge from the bitterness and pain of the world or a hermitage in which amid scenes of perennial beauty they could weave their flowers of thought into immortal garlands of human words

Travel and Modernist Literature

Alexandra Peat, 2012-03-28 Through close readings of works from Henry James to W E B Du Bois and from Virginia Woolf to Jean Rhys this book discusses how fictional travelers negotiate and adapt various tropes of travel such as quest expatriation displacement and exile as models for their own journeys Specifically Peat considers the ethical dimensions of modernist travel from two distinct vantages The first focuses on the relationship between the secular and the sacred in modernist travel literature arguing that the recurrent narrative of secular travel is haunted by a desire for spiritual transcendence The second posits modernist travel fiction as a potentially positive example of transcultural relations consciously arguing against the received notion that travel during an imperial era is always by nature itself imperialist Throughout particular attention is paid to the transnational nature of modernism and the various global flows traced by modernist literature
