Henry, 2015-07-07 Excerpt from Roads of Destiny I go to seek on many roads What is to be True heart and strong with love to light Will they not bear me in the fight To order shun or wield or mould My Destiny Unpublished Poems of David Mignot The song was over The words were David s the air one of the countryside The company about the inn table applauded heartily for the young poet paid for the wine Only the notary M Papineau shook his head a little at the lines for he was a man of books and he had not drunk with the rest David went out into the village street where the night air drove the wine vapour from his head And then he remembered that he and Yvonne had quarrelled that day and that he had resolved to leave his home that night to seek fame and honour in the great world outside When my poems are on every man s tongue he told him self in a fine exhilaration she will perhaps think of the hard words she spoke this day Except the roysterers in the tavern the village folk were abed David crept softly into his room in the shed of his father s cottage and made a bundle of his small store of clothing With this upon a staff he set his face outward upon the road that ran from Vernoy About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Roads of Destiny O Henry, 2020-11-26 Three leagues then the road ran and turned into a puzzle It joined with another and a larger road at right angles David stood uncertain for a while and then took the road to the right Whither it led he knew not but he was resolved to leave Vernoy far behind that night He travelled a league and then passed a large chateau which showed testimony of recent entertainment Lights shone from every window from the great stone gateway ran a tracery of wheel tracks drawn in the dust by the vehicles of the guests Three leagues farther and David was weary He rested and slept for a while on a bed of pine boughs at the roadside Then up and on again along the unknown way Thus for five days he travelled the great road sleeping upon Nature s balsamic beds or in peasants ricks eating of their black hospitable bread drinking from streams or the willing cup of the goatherd At length he crossed a great bridge and set his foot within the smiling city that has crushed or crowned more poets than all the rest of the world His breath came quickly as Paris sang to him in a little undertone her vital chant of greeting the hum of voice and foot and wheel High up under the eaves of an old house in the Rue Conti David paid for lodging and set himself in a wooden chair to his poems The street once sheltering citizens of import and consequence was now given over to those who ever follow in the wake of decline The houses were tall and still possessed of a ruined dignity but many of them were empty save for dust and the spider By night there was the clash of steel and the cries of brawlers straying restlessly from inn to inn Where once gentility abode was now but an arid and rude incontinence But here David found housing commensurate to his scant purse Daylight and candlelight found him at pen and paper
