A Year in White C. Lynn Carr, 2016-01-19 In the Afro Cuban Lukumi religious tradition more commonly known in the United States as Santería entrants into the priesthood undergo an extraordinary fifty three week initiation period During this time these novices called iyawo endure a host of prohibitions including most notably wearing exclusively white clothing In A Year in White sociologist C Lynn Carr who underwent this initiation herself opens a window on this remarkable year long religious transformation In her intimate investigation of the year in white Carr draws on fifty two in depth interviews with other participants an online survey of nearly two hundred others and almost a decade of her own ethnographic fieldwork gathering stories that allow us to see how cultural newcomers and natives thought felt and acted with regard to their initiation She documents how during the iyawo year the ritual slowly transforms the initiate's identity For the first three months for instance the iyawo may not use a mirror even to shave and must eat all meals while seated on a mat on the floor using only a spoon and their own set of dishes During the entire year the iyawo loses their name and is simply addressed as iyawo by family and friends Carr also shows that this year long religious ritual which is carried out even as the iyawo goes about daily life offers new insight into religion in general suggesting that the sacred is not separable from the profane and indeed that religion shares an ongoing dynamic relationship with the realities of everyday life Religious expression happens at home on the streets at work and school Offering insight not only into Santería but also into religion more generally A Year in White makes an important contribution to our understanding of complex dynamic religious landscapes in multicultural pluralist societies and how they inhabit our daily lives and electronic resources      The Race for America R. J. Boutelle, 2023-10-03 As Manifest Destiny took hold in the national consciousness what did it mean for African Americans who were excluded from its ambitions for an expanding American empire that would shepherd the Western Hemisphere into a new era of civilization and prosperity R J Boutelle explores how Black intellectuals like Daniel Peterson James McCune Smith Mary Ann Shadd Henry Bibb and Martin Delany engaged this cultural mythology to theorize and practice Black internationalism He uncovers how their strategies for challenging Manifest Destiny s white nationalist ideology and expansionist political agenda constituted a form of disidentification a deconstructing and reassembling of this discourse that marshals Black experiences as racialized subjects to imagine novel geopolitical mythologies and projects to compete with Manifest Destiny Employing Black internationalist hemispheric and diasporic frameworks to examine the emigrationist and solidarity projects that African Americans proposed as alternatives to Manifest Destiny Boutelle attends to sites integral to US aspirations of hemispheric dominion Liberia Nicaragua Canada and Cuba In doing so Boutelle offers a searing history of how internalized fantasies of American exceptionalism burdened the Black geopolitical imagination that encouraged settler colonial and imperialist projects in the Americas and West Africa      A Critical Introduction to Religion in the Americas Michelle A. Gonzalez, 2014-07-18 A Critical Introduction to Religion in the Americas argues that we cannot understand religion in the Americas without understanding its marginalized communities Despite frequently voiced doubts among religious studies scholars it makes the case that theology and particularly liberation theology is still useful but it must be reframed to attend to the ways in which religion is actually experienced on the ground That is a liberation theology that assumes a need to work on behalf of the poor can seem out of touch with a population experiencing huge Pentecostal and Charismatic growth where the focus is not on inequality or social action but on individual relationships with the divine By drawing on a combination of historical and ethnographic sources this volume provides a basic introduction to the study of religion and theology in the Latino a Black and Latin American contexts and then shows how theology can be reframed to better speak to the concerns of both religious studies and the real people the theologians work is meant to represent Informed by the dialogue partners explored throughout the text this volume presents a hemispheric approach to discussing lived religious movements While not dismissive of liberation theologies this approach is critical of their past and offers challenges to their future as well as suggestions for preventing their untimely demise It is clear that the liberation theologies of tomorrow cannot look like the liberation theologies of today      Women of the Iberian Atlantic Sarah E. Owens, Jane E. Mangan, 2012-12-07 The ten essays in this interdisciplinary collection explore the lives places and stories of women in the Iberian Atlantic between 1500 and 1800 Contributors utilize the complexities of gender to understand issues of race class family health and religious practices in the Atlantic basin Unlike previous scholarship which has focused primarily on upper class and noble women this book examines the lives of those on the periphery including free and enslaved Africans colonized indigenous mothers and poor Spanish women      Osun across the
