Agency in Ancient Writing Joshua Englehardt, 2012-12-15 Through the lens of agency contributors successfully rethink the nature of ancient texts In so doing they ably demonstrate that when a new theoretical orientation is applied to a taken for granted category of data it invigorates both the data and our understanding of the past Marcia Anne Dobres University of Maine Individual agents are frequently evident in early writing and notational systems yet these systems have rarely been subjected to the concept of agency as it is traceable in archeology Agency in Ancient Writing addresses this oversight allowing archeologists to identify and discuss real observable actors and actions in the archaeological record Embracing myriad ways in which agency can be interpreted ancient writing systems from Mesoamerica Mesopotamia Egypt Crete China and Greece are examined from a textual perspective as both archaeological objects and nascent historical documents This allows for distinction among intentions consequences meanings and motivations increasing understanding and aiding interpretation of the subjectivity of social actors Chapters focusing on acts of writing and public recitation overlap with those addressing the materiality of texts interweaving archaeology epigraphy and the study of visual symbol systems Agency in Ancient Writing leads to a more thorough and meaningful discussion of agency as an archaeological concept and will be of interest to anyone interested in ancient texts including archaeologists historians linguists epigraphers and art historians as well as scholars studying agency and structuration theory

Bremmer,2007 The Strange World of Human Sacrifice is the first modern collection of studies on one of the most gruesome and intriguing aspects of religion The volume starts with a brief introduction which is followed by studies of Aztec human sacrifice and the literary motif of human sacrifice in medieval Irish literature Turning to ancient Greece three cases of human sacrifice are analysed a ritual example a mythical case and one in which myth and ritual are interrelated The early Christians were the victims of accusations of human sacrifice but in turn imputed the crime to heterodox Christians just as the Jews imputed the crime to their neighbours The ancient Egyptians rarely seem to have practised human sacrifice but buried the pharaoh s servants with him in order to serve him in the afterlife albeit only for a brief period at the very beginning of pharaonic civilization In ancient India we can follow the traditions of human sacrifice from the earliest texts up to modern times where especially in eastern India goddesses such as Kali were long worshipped with human victims In Japanese tales human sacrifice often takes the form of self sacrifice and there may well be a line from these early sacrifices to modern kamikaze The last study throws a surprising light on human sacrifice in China The volume is concluded with a detailed index
