A Region Among States Lee Cabatingan, 2023-06-05 Based on long term ethnographic fieldwork at the Caribbean Court of Justice A Region among States explores the possibility of constituting a region on a geopolitical and ideological terrain dominated by the nation state How is it that a great swath of the independent English speaking Caribbean continues to accept the judicial oversight of their former colonizer via the British institution of the Privy Council And what possibilities might the Caribbean Court of Justice a judicial institution responsive to the region not to any single nation offer for untangling sovereignty and regionhood law and modernity and postcolonial Caribbean identity Joining the Court as an intern Lee Cabatingan studied its work up close she attended each court hearing and numerous staff meetings served on committees assisted with the organization of conferences and helped prepare speeches and presentations for the judges She now offers insight into not only how the Court positions itself vis vis the Caribbean region and the world but also whether the Court and perhaps the region itself as an overarching construct might ever achieve a real measure of popular success In their quest for an accepting eager constituency the Court is undertaking a project of extrajudicial region building that borrows from the toolbox of the nation state In each chapter Cabatingan takes us into an analytical dimension familiar from studies of nation and state building myth territory people language and brand to help us understand not only the Court and its ambitions but also the regionalist project beset as it is with false starts and disappointments as a potential alternative to the sovereign state

Akosua Dardaine Edwards,2021-02-02 Self Destruction is not pretty and it can be painful as hell Trust me Life gives us so many nudges and clues on when we are on the path of self destruction If we truly pay attention we can change the path and reroute accordingly Life is even so good to us that even when we ignore the clues and nudges it will stop us right where we are in our tracks and demand our full attention The pages you are about to read reflect the stories and lessons of what I call the flip side The flip side of when I was stopped in my tracks and rerouted The flip side reflects the path after my own Journey to Unconditional Self Love Timehri ,1895 African American State Volunteers in the New South John Patrick Blair,2023-11-15 In the immediate aftermath of the Civil War a turbulent period fraught with violence struggle and uncertainty a forgotten few African Americans banded together as men to assert their rights as citizens Following emancipation the nation's newest citizens established churches entered the political arena created educational and business opportunities and even formed labor organizations but it was through state militia service with the prestige and heightened status conveyed by their affiliation that they displayed their loyalty discipline and more importantly their manliness within the public sphere In African American State Volunteers in the New South John Patrick Blair offers a comparative examination of the experiences and activities of African American men as members in the state volunteer military organizations of Georgia Texas and Virginia including the complicated relationships between state government and military officials many of them former Confederate officers and the leaders of the Black militia volunteers This important new study expands understanding of racial accommodation however minor toward the African American military confirmed not only in the actions of state government and military officials to arm equip and train these Black troops but also in the acceptance of clearly visible and authorized military activities by these very same volunteers In doing so it adds significant layers to our knowledge of racial politics as they developed during Reconstruction and prompts us to consider a broader understanding of the history of the South into the twentieth century Timehri Sir Everard Ferdinand Im Thurn, John Joseph Quelch, James Rodway, 1895 Reports and proceedings of the society are included in each volume Black Baseball, 1858-1900 James E.
