Structuring Sense: Volume 2: The Normal Course of Events Hagit Borer, 2005-01-21 Structuring Sense explores the difference between words however defined and structures however constructed It sets out to demonstrate over three volumes of which this is the second that the explanation of linguistic competence should be shifted from lexical entry to syntactic structure from memory of words to manipulation of rules Its reformulation of how grammar and lexicon interact has profound implications for linguistic philosophical and psychological theories about human mind and language Hagit Borer departs from both language specific constructional approaches and lexicalist approaches to argue that universal hierarchical structures determine interpretation and that language variation emerges from the morphological and phonological properties of inflectional material The Normal Course of Events applies this radical approach to event structure Integrating research results in syntax semantics and morphology the author shows that argument structure is based on the syntactic realization of semantic event units The topics she addresses include the structure of internal arguments and of telic and atelic interpretations accusative and partitive case perfective and imperfective marking the unaccusative unergative distinction existential interpretation and post verbal subjects and resultative constructions The languages discussed include English Catalan Finnish Hebrew Czech Polish Russian and Spanish

The Semantic Web Vipul Kashyap, Christoph Bussler, Matthew Moran, 2008-09-27 The Semantic Web is a vision the idea of having data on the Web defined and linked in such a way that it can be used by machines not just for display purposes but for automation integration and reuse of data across various applications However there is a widespread misconception that the Semantic Web is a rehash of existing AI and database work Kashyap Bussler and Moran dispel this notion by presenting the multi disciplinary technological underpinnings such as machine learning information retrieval service oriented architectures and grid computing Thus they combine the informational and computational aspects needed to realize the full potential of the Semantic Web vision

A Theory of Conventional Implicature and Pragmatic Markers in Chinese Guangwu Feng, 2010 Conventional implicature is itself a highly controversial term understood very differently by various brands of contemporary pragmatic theory This book sets out to advance a Gricean theoretical framework of conventional implicature It also intends to offer an analysis of pragmatic markers in Chinese

Statistical Semantics Sverker Sikström, Danilo Garcia, 2020-06-08 This book discusses the application of various statistical methods to texts rather than numbers in various fields in behavioral science It proposes an approach where quantitative methods are applied to data whereas previously such data were analyzed only by qualitative research methods To emphasize the quantitative aspects of semantics and the possibilities of conducting scientific interferences the book introduces the concept of statistical semantics and presents the reader with a subset of techniques found in that domain More specifically the book focuses on methods that allow the investigation of semantic relationships between words based on empirical corpus data It shows the reader how to apply various statistical methods on texts for example statistical tests to ascertain whether two sets of text are statistically different ways to predict variables from text as well as how to summarize and graphically illustrate texts Thus the book presents an accessible hands on introduction to a selection of techniques indispensable for cognitive psychologists linguists and social psychologists

Case Studies of Linguistic Representations of Motion Yo Matsumoto,2025-02-17 How languages describe spatial motion events has been a hotly discussed topic in recent years in cognitive linguistics and linguistic typology This two volume book provides new descriptions and proposals on this fascinating topic based on a large scale experimental study of motion event descriptions in almost 20 languages across the globe as part of a research project conducted by NINJAL The chapters are based on papers presented at international conferences most at NINJAL international symposium held in January 2019 some at International Cognitive Linguistics Conferences in 2017 and 2019 This volume provides valuable descriptions of familiar and unfamiliar languages as well as insightful discussions of controversial issues based on those descriptions This book would interest students in linguistics and cognitive science in Asia Pacific Europe and North America

Parenthetical Meaning Todor Koev,2022-06-16 This book investigates the semantics and pragmatics of a representative sample of parenthetical constructions Todor Koev argues that these constructions fall into two major classes pure and impure Pure parentheticals comment on some part of the descriptive content of the root sentence but are otherwise relatively independent of it Impure parentheticals modify components of the illocutionary force and affect the felicity or the truth of the root sentence The book studies parentheticals from three theoretical viewpoints illocutionary effects scopal properties and discourse status It establishes and explicates the notion of parenthetical meaning in a formally precise and predictive dynamic semantic model As a result parentheticality is brought to bear on linguistic phenomena such as entailment and presupposition binding and anaphora evidentiality and modality illocutionary force and polarity
