The images of today display the values of a society that has more interest in the body than the mind. They are techno-enhanced labyrinths of unattainable appearances that leave women and men feeling horrified, estranged and restricted by unrealistic silent mandates. Measuring Up looks at advertising as more than just a way to extract money from unsuspecting people but as a vehicle for conveying the larger views of a confining body-obsessed culture. By weaving theoretical and textual insights from feminist and cultural studies with the voices of real women and men, Measuring Up offers a unique reception analysis of the effects of repetitious exposure to advertisements of perfect bodies in our everyday lives. Shields examines a particular complex relationship between the idealized images of gender we see in advertising and our own thoughts, feelings and behavior in relation to these images. The study is unique in presenting audience reception in terms of ethnographic data, not textual interpretations alone. Measuring Up engages with and informs current theoretical debates within these sometimes complementary and sometimes contradictory literatures: feminist media studies, feminist film theory, critical social theory, cultural studies and critical ethnography. This is an important work that explores the forms and channels of power used in one of the most insidious and overt means of mass influence in popular culture. Context ,

Media Studies: Institutions, theories, and issues Pieter Jacobus Fourie, 2001. This outcomes-based textbook provides comprehensive information on the makeup of media institutions, theories in media studies and critical issues that face the media today. With this guide, media students learn the history of the media and learn how to keep up with the latest trends and developments in broadcasting, printed press and film. Outlined is how to develop an internal media policy with company mission statements, news and programming policies. The relationship of the media to the economy, politics and society and how the media represents race, gender, violence and terrorism are also discussed. Beyond the Symbol Model John Stewart, 1996-10-17. Beyond the Symbol Model: Reflections on the Representational Nature of Language presents arguments on several sides of the contemporary debate over the representational nature of language. Contributors include philosophers, linguists, psychologists, semioticians and communication theorists from the U.S., Canada, Britain, Northern Ireland and Israel. The chapters respond to the argument that language can no longer be viewed as a system of signs or symbols and that a post-semiotic account can be developed from the recognition that language is first and foremost constitutive, articulate contact. Three chapters extend this argument, two frame it historically, three disagree and one contextualizes the beyond enterprise itself. The book is a companion volume to Language as Articulate Contact: Toward a Post-Semiotic Philosophy of Communication. These two books contribute to the ongoing conversation about the nature of language that is strongly influencing theory and research in virtually all the human studies. Phenomenology 2005. Volume 5: Selected Essays from North America, part 2 Embree, Lester, Nenon, Thomas, 2007-01-01. Brand Equity Planning with Structuralist Rhetorical Semiotics Rossolatos, George, 2014-01-01. Brand Equity Planning with Structuralist Rhetorical Semiotics furnishes an innovative conceptual model and methodology for brand equity planning with a view to addressing a crucial gap in the existing marketing and semiotic literatures concerning how advertising multimodal textual elements may be transformed into brand associations with an emphasis on rhetorical relations as modes of connectivity between a brand's surface and depth grammar. The scope of this project is interdisciplinary, spanning research areas such as brand equity, structuralist semiotics, textual semiotics, visual and film semiotics, multimodal rhetoric, film theory, psychoanalysis. The proposed connectionist model of the brand trajectory of signification is operationalized through a methodological framework that encompasses a structuralist semiotic interpretative approach to the textual formation of brand equity supported by quantitative content analysis with the aid of the software Atlas.ti and the application of multivariate mapping techniques.

Culturing Interface

Hsin-I Cheng, 2008. This book investigates the experiences of a Chinese and Taiwanese community on the U.S.-Mexico border from a critical communication perspective. Based on ethnographic material from El Paso/Juarez, the book critically explores the processes of identity crafting in accordance with the global geopolitical landscape. By examining the everyday communications within a group of transnational travelers and dwellers in between boundaries, the book illustrates how cultural practices and identities are strategically accomplished through communication. In tracing the forces behind these transnational movements and understanding the multiple worlds of travelers and dwellers, Culturing Interface brings to light the previously unheard voices of the Chinese people on the U.S.-Mexico border.

The Global Intercultural Communication Reader. Molefi Kete Asante, Yoshitaka Miike, Jing Yin, 2013-06-26. The Global Intercultural Communication Reader is the first anthology to take a distinctly non-Eurocentric approach to the study of culture and communication. In this expanded second edition, editors Molefi Kete Asante, Yoshitaka Miike, and Jing Yin bring together thirty-two essential readings for students of cross-cultural, intercultural, and international communication. This stand-out collection aims to broaden and deepen the scope of the field by placing an emphasis on diversity, including work from authors across the globe examining the processes and politics of intercultural communication from critical historical and indigenous perspectives. The collection covers a wide range of topics: the emergence and evolution of the field; issues and challenges in cross-cultural and intercultural inquiry; cultural wisdom and communication practices in context; identity and intercultural competence in a multicultural society; the effects of globalization and ethical considerations. Many readings first appeared outside the mainstream Western academy and offer diverse theoretical lenses on culture and communication practices in the world community. Organized into five themed sections for easy classroom use, The Global Intercultural Communication Reader includes a detailed bibliography that will be a crucial resource for today's students of intercultural communication.

Critical Food Studies in Asia

Arya Parakkate Vijayaraghavan, Dishari Chattaraj, 2024-10-30. This book offers a curated collection of scholarship that significantly contributes to the shaping of Critical Food Studies in Asia.
