Him Even the disciples although a part of them stood by the cross had lost all hope The poor malefactor on the right alone steps over the rock of offence and dares to call Christ who hangs on the cross at his side a Lord and King He gives the lie to all the world cares not what others think of him and proclaims Christ to be an everlasting King These are his words Lord remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom He calls Christ a Lord says He has a kingdom and desires Him when lie shall have entered His kingdom to remember him Now the time rendered it certain that neither of them could live till evening Therefore he believes that Christ is the Lord of another and an eternal life This faith and this confession found as it was in the midst of a world that despaired of Christ and hated Him must have been indeed a great and exquisite faith a glorious confession Matthew's Account of the Massacre of the Innocents in Light of its Reception History Sung J.

Cho,2021-10-21 Sung Cho addresses the seeming contradiction of Herod the Great s massacre in Matthew 2 16 18 questioning why such a tragedy had to occur why it was included in the good news of Jesus and what connection it has to ancient prophecies In creating a reception history of the Massacre of the Innocents Cho progresses through two millennia worth of interpretation and depiction to highlight key works for discussion Beginning with a close reading of Matthew 2 16 18 Cho moves to analyse depictions of the tragedy in the Early Patristic Tradition from the sixth century to the early modern period and thus to the present day complete with an examination of visual interpretations of the massacre Cho s examination provides a positive step to understanding the depths of human suffering with the help of many diverse perspectives
