Material Memories Design And Evocation:

Material Memories Marius Kwint, 1999-09 This illustrated book is an attempt to understand the intersection of memory and material culture by providing an interdisciplinary forum for its analysis

Material Memories Marius Kwint, Christopher Breward, Jeremy Aynsley, 1999 This book examines the way that objects speak to us through the memories that we associate with them Instead of viewing the meaning of particular designs as fixed and given by looking at the process of evocation it finds an open and continuing dialogue between things their makers and their consumers This is not however to diminish the role of design in shaping human consciousness The contributors do not view objects as blank carriers onto which humans project prior psychic dramas but rather place crucial importance on the precise materials from which they are made their social economic and historic reasons for being and the way that we interact with them through our senses This book therefore studies the physical within the intellectual directly testing the concept of material culture With telling illustrations and spanning the Renaissance to the present day leading scholars converge across disciplines to explore the souvenir value of jewellery textiles the home the urban space modernist design photography the museum and even the sunken wreck Together they show how the sense of the past and of history far from being a radical illusion as some post modernists claim has been a deeply felt reality Bloomsbury Publishing

Materializing Memory in Art and Popular Culture Laszlo Muntean, Liedeke Plate, Anneke Smelik, 2016-12-08 Memory matters It matters because memory brings the past into the present and opens it up to the future But it also matters literally because memory is mediated materially Materiality is the stuff of memory Meaningful objects that we love or hate function not only as aide mmoire but are integral to memory Drawing on previous scholarship on the interrelation of memory and materiality this book applies recent theories of new materialism to explore the material dimension of memory in art and popular culture The book s underlying premise is twofold on the one hand memory is performed mediated and stored through the material world that surrounds us on the other hand inanimate objects and things also have agency on their own which affects practices of memory as well as forgetting Chapters 1 4 and 5 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 3 0 license

Shared Landscapes Rodney Harrison, 2004 The heritage of the pastoral industry stands as an integral symbol of identity for rural communities both black and white in New South Wales Modern changes in pastoral land management infrastructure and technology combined with broader land use changes and increased community interest in the conservation and rehabilitation of former grazing lands has meant that many former pastoral properties have been abandoned or acquired for other uses Tracking the history of these land use changes Shared Landscapes presents new ways of understanding historic heritage in settler societies through cross disciplinary case studies that examine the heritage of the pastoral industry in two national parks Assessing its current state of interpretation and management in New South Wales Rodney Harrison shows that pastoral heritage is more than just woolsheds and homesteads the showpieces of white male settler colonial economies Pastoral heritage is the product of the mutual histories of Aboriginal and settler Australians It is a form of heritage that is both in and a part of the landscape His archaeological approach to the heritage of the pastoral industry involves both recording sites and revealing attachments to community heritage demonstrating that writing shared histories and celebrating shared heritage has the creative power to reconcile Aboriginal and settler Australians in powerful and positive ways

Anglo-Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History 14 Sarah Semple, Howard Williams, 2007-10-10 Volume 14 of the Anglo Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History series is dedicated to the archaeology of early medieval death burial and commemoration Incorporating studies focusing upon Anglo Saxon England as well as research encompassing western Britain Continental Europe and Scandinavia this volume originated as the proceedings of a two day conference held at the University of Exeter in February 2004 It comprises of an Introduction that outlines the key debates and new approaches in early medieval mortuary archaeology followed by eighteen innovative research papers offering new interpretations of the material culture monuments and landscape context of early medieval mortuary practices Papers contribute to a variety of ongoing debates including the study of ethnicity religion ideology and social memory from burial evidence The volume also contains two cemetery reports of early Anglo Saxon cemeteries from Cambridgeshire

Archaeologies of Remembrance Howard Williams, 2012-12-06 How did past communities and individuals remember through social and ritual practices How important were mortuary practices in processes of remembering and forgetting the past This innovative new research work focuses upon identifying strategies of remembrance Evidence can be found in a range of archaeological remains including the adornment and alteration of the body in life and death the production exchange consumption and destruction of material culture the construction use and reuse of monuments and the social ordering of architectural space and the landscape This book shows how in the past as today shared memories are important and defining aspects of social and ritual traditions and the practical actions of dealing with and disposing of the dead can form a central focus for the definition of social memory

Heritage Rodney Harrison, 2013 Historic sites memorials national parks museumsewe live in an age in which heritage is ever present But what does it mean to live amongst the spectral traces of the past the heterogeneous piling up of historic materials in the present How did heritage grow from the concern of a handful of enthusiasts and specialists in one part of the world to something which is considered to be universally cherished And what concepts and approaches are necessary to understanding this global obsession Over the decades since the adoption of the World Heritage Convention various e crises e tm of definition have significantly influenced the ways in which heritage is classified perceived and managed in contemporary global societies Taking an interdisciplinary approach to the many tangible and intangible e thingse tm now defined as heritage this book attempts simultaneously to account for this global phenomenon and the industry which has grown up around it as well as to develop a e toolkit of conceptse tm with which it might be studied In doing so it provides a critical account of the emergence of heritage studies as an interdisciplinary field of academic study This is presented as part of a broader examination of the function of heritage in late modern societies with a particular focus on the changes which have resulted from the globalisation of heritage during the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries Developing new theoretical approaches and innovative models for more dialogically democratic heritage decision making processes Heritage Critical Approaches unravels the relationship between heritage and the experience of late modernity whilst reorienting heritage so that it might be more productively connected with other pressing social economic political and environmental issues of our time

Extreme Collecting Graeme Were, J. C. H. King, 2012-03-01 By exploring the processes of collecting which challenge the bounds of normally acceptable practice this book debates the practice of collecting difficult objects from a historical and contemporary perspective and discusses the acquisition of objects related to war and genocide and those purchased from the internet as well as considering human remains mass produced objects and illicitly traded antiquities The aim is to apply a critical approach to the rigidity of museums in maintaining essentially nineteenth century ideas of collecting and to move towards identifying priorities for collection policies in museums which are inclusive of acquiring difficult objects Much of the book engages with the question of the limits to the practice of collecting as a means to think through the implementation of new strategies Home, Materiality, Memory and Belonging Rachel Hurdley, 2013-05-07 Assembling Mass Observation Archive material with historiographies of family house and nation from ancient Greece to present day Europe China and America this book contributes to current debates on identity belonging memory and material culture by exploring how power works in the small spaces of home Britain and the Narration of Travel in the Nineteenth Century Kate Hill, 2017-05-15 Interrogating the multiple ways in which travel was narrated and mediated by and in response to nineteenth century British travelers this interdisciplinary collection examines to what extent these accounts drew on and developed existing tropes of travel The three sections take up personal and intimate narratives that were not necessarily designed for public consumption tales intended for a popular audience and accounts that were more clearly linked with discourses and institutions of power such as imperial processes of conquest and governance Some narratives focus on the things the travelers carried such as souvenirs from the battlefields of Britain's imperial wars while others show the complexity of Victorian dreams of the exotic Still others offer a disapproving glimpse of Victorian mores through the eyes of indigenous peoples in contrast to the imperialist vision of British explorers Swiss hotel registers guest books and guidebooks offer insights into the history of tourism while new photographic technologies the development of the telegraph system and train travel transformed the visual audial and even the conjugal experience of travel The contributors attend to issues of gender and ethnicity in essays on women travelers South African travel narratives and accounts of China during the Opium Wars and analyze the influence of fictional travel narratives Taken together these essays show how these multiple narratives circulated cross fertilised and reacted to one another to produce new narratives new objects and new modes of travel
