Historical Tours Alexandria, Virginia Frederick Knops, 2017-04-15 Alexandria is one of America's most important Colonial towns. Sitting in the shadow of the nation's capital, it was the home of George Washington, the launching point of the French and Indian war, and the site of the Thomas Jefferson's inaugural ball. Alexandria is now the site of hundreds of architecturally and historically significant buildings, streets named after the heroes of America's founding, and is home to numerous boutiques and gourmet restaurants. Historical Tours Alexandria, Virginia takes the reader on an exploration of this storied American city from its beginnings, including the history behind its street names and founding families. Included are biographies, archival photos, maps, and timelines that add further texture to the history of this remarkable place.

The San Francisco of Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo Douglas A. Cunningham, 2011-12-15 In Sight and Sound magazine's 2012 poll of the greatest films of all time, Vertigo placed at the top of the list, supplanting Citizen Kane. A favorite among critics, it also made the American Film Institute's 100 Years 100 Movies, where it ranked in the top 10. Often regarded as Hitchcock's most personal work, the film explores such themes as obsession, exploitation, and voyeurism. In The San Francisco of Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo: Place, Pilgrimage, and Commemoration, Douglas A. Cunningham has assembled provocative essays that examine the uniquely integrated relationship that the 1958 film enjoys with the histories and cultural imaginations of California and more specifically the San Francisco Bay Area. Contributors to this collection ponder a number of topics such as the ways in which Vertigo resurrects the narratives of San Francisco's violent past, how sightseeing informs the act of watching the film, the significance that landmarks in the film hold in our collective cultural memory, and the variety of ways in which Vertigo enthusiasts commemorate the film. The essays also ask larger questions about the specificities of place and the role such specificities play in our comprehensive efforts to understand this layered and seminal film Because of its interdisciplinary approach The San Francisco of Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo will have a broad appeal to scholars of film anthropology geography ethnic studies the history of California and the West tourism and of course anyone with an abiding interest in the work of Alfred Hitchcock Cumberland Island National Seashore, Wilderness Recommended General Management Plan (GMP), 1981 Past forward LU Shaoming, Anna Irene Del Monaco, Dina Nencini, 2017-11-30 This book is born from the will to undertake a joint research path on the general theme of transformation and renewal of urban contexts deepening the case of historical Chinese and Italian cities The research collected case studies and theoretical elaborations focusing on the Chinese city of Shanghai and Chongqing and other Italian urban realities filtering contents around thematic nodes such as memory narration and reflection on new urban models In particular the initial idea emerged from shared reflections between Chinese and Italian scientific professors responsible for international agreements established between the Department of Architecture and the Design of Sapienza University of Rome and Chinese remarkable institutions Indeed the present research promoted and directed by Dina Nencini was joined by Anna Irene Del Monaco of Sapienza and Shaoming LU of Shanghai Jiaotong University The book directly and indirectly draws on a series of questions about the memory work walking a theoretical path which has a relevant milestone in Lieu de memoire Pierre Nora 1984 and the 1996 Triennale di Milano entitled Identit differenze Triennale di Milano XIX Esposizione internazionale integrazione e pluralit nelle forme del nostro tempo le culture tra effimero e duraturo Identity Differences Triennale of Milan XIX International Exposition Integration and plurality in the forms of our time cultures between ephemeral and enduring Lake Minnetonka Excelsior-Lake Minnetonka Historical Society, Wayzata Historical Society, Westonka Historical Society, 2015-03-30 Known to native peoples for centuries as a sacred place and hunting ground the ninth largest of Minnesota's 10 000 lakes remained unchanged until its shores were opened to settlement in 1851 The following year New York promoter George Bertram wrote For healthfulness of climate fertility of soil beauty of scenery and nearness to markets it cannot be surpassed by any other locality in the country being within twelve or fifteen miles of two of the most important towns in the territory navigable for steam and other boats over forty one miles its waters clear as crystal and abounding with fish Settlers began to flock to Lake Minnetonka's 120 miles of shoreline clearing the Big Woods and building new lives in the wilderness Soon the lake became a tourist destination thousands traveled across the country to stay in its lavish hotels ride in massive steamboats and enjoy the lake's beauty Annual Report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to the Legislature of New York American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, 1913 Historic Preservation News, 1990 Annual Report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to the Legislature of the State of New York American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, 1913 Lonely Planet Greece Lonely Planet, Korina Miller, Kate Armstrong, Alexis Averbuck, Michael S Clark, Anna Kaminski, Vesna Maric, Craig McLachlan, Zora O'Neill, Leonid

Memories of War Thomas A. Chambers,2012-09-24 Even in the midst of the Civil War its battlefields were being dedicated as hallowed ground Today those sites are among the most visited places in the United States In contrast the battlegrounds of the Revolutionary War had seemingly been forgotten in the aftermath of the conflict in which the nation forged its independence Decades after the signing of the Constitution the battlefields of Yorktown Saratoga Fort Moultrie Ticonderoga Guilford Courthouse Kings Mountain and Cowpens among others were unmarked except for crumbling forts and overgrown ramparts Not until the late 1820s did Americans begin to recognize the importance of these places In Memories of War Thomas A Chambers recounts America's rediscovery of its early national history through the rise of battlefield tourism in the first half of the nineteenth century Travelers in this period Chambers finds wanted more than recitations of regimental movements when they visited battlefields they desired experiences that evoked strong emotions and leant meaning to the bleached bones and decaying fortifications of a past age Chambers traces this impulse through efforts to commemorate Braddock's Field and Ticonderoga the cultivated landscapes masking the violent past of the Hudson River valley the overgrown ramparts of Southern war sites and the scenic vistas at War of 1812 battlefields along the Niagara River Describing a progression from neglect to the Romantic embrace of the landscape and then to ritualized remembrance Chambers brings his narrative up to the beginning of the Civil War during and after which the memorialization of such sites became routine assuming significant political and cultural power in the American imagination

The Bicentennial of the United States of America American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, 1977 Designing San Francisco Alison Isenberg, 2024-09-24 A major urban history of the design and development of postwar San Francisco Designing San Francisco is the untold story of the formative postwar decades when U S cities took their modern shape amid clashing visions of the future In this pathbreaking and richly illustrated book Alison Isenberg shifts the focus from architects and city planners those most often hailed in histories of urban development and design to the unsung artists activists and others who played pivotal roles in rebuilding San Francisco between the 1940s and the 1970s Previous accounts of midcentury urban renewal have focused on the opposing terms set down by Robert Moses and Jane Jacobs put simply development versus preservation and have followed New York City models Now Isenberg turns our attention west to colorful pioneering and contentious San Francisco where unexpectedly fierce battles were waged over iconic private and public projects like

Ghirardelli Square Golden Gateway and the Transamerica Pyramid When large scale redevelopment came to low rise San Francisco in the 1950s the resulting rivalries and conflicts sparked the proliferation of numerous allied arts fields and their professionals including architectural model makers real estate publicists graphic designers photographers property managers builders sculptors public interest lawyers alternative press writers and preservationists Isenberg explores how these centrally engaged arts professionals brought new ideas to city regional and national planning and shaped novel projects across urban suburban and rural borders San Francisco s rebuilding galvanized far reaching critiques of the inequitable competition for scarce urban land and propelled debates over responsible public land stewardship Isenberg challenges many truisms of this renewal era especially the presumed male domination of postwar urban design showing how women collaborated in city building long before feminism s impact in the 1970s An evocative portrait of one of the world s great cities Designing San Francisco provides a new paradigm for understanding past and present struggles to define the urban future The city trip guide for Recife (Brazil) YouGuide Ltd,
