

A topographic map of Vermont is shown, with the state's outline clearly defined. The map uses a color gradient to represent elevation, with darker greens for lower altitudes and lighter greens/yellows for higher altitudes. The word "VERMONT" is superimposed in the center of the state in a large, bold, white sans-serif font. The letters have a thick, dark red outline and a subtle drop shadow, making them stand out against the map background. The map also shows major water bodies like Lake Champlain to the west and Lake Umbagog to the east, as well as various rivers and smaller lakes within the state's borders.
