One August Day:

Strype's Works John Strype, 1822 Eugenia's Creations Jill Bibbs, 2021-05-12 The title of this book is my middle name Eugenia and all my creations and pain I have endured in my life and in my dreams I have daydreams and night dreams some good some bad some perplexed and some crazy The pain is about deaths of my family friends neighbors and people in the world I can say that my title is Me because I feel I m a very confused and complicated person The title and Eugenia s creation s pain Alphabetical Africa Walter Abish, 1974 Walter Abish has dovetailed his novel within a Procrustean scheme that has the terrifying and irrefutable logic of the alphabet Alphabetical Africa is in the line of writers such as Raymond Roussel Raymond Queneau Georges Perec and Harry Mathews who have used constrictive forms to penetrate the space on the other side of poetry John Ashbery Catering for My King Barb VanVleet, 2022-10-26 Growing up author Barb VanVleet experienced a tumultuous childhood Her emotional pain stemmed from low self esteem a brother s sudden death and sexual abuse by an unexpected perpetrator It took up residence in her heart for years In Catering for My King she shares her story telling how she overcame each trial Keeping a journal each day for fifteen years helped reveal how God opened her eyes renewed her mind and filled her heart with himself a transformation only he could accomplish VanVleet chronicles how she became an owner of a successful and rewarding catering business She discusses her life lessons including the adversity in her marriage while living in a blended family Heartwarming nerve racking and humorous the stories included in Catering for my King reveal her faith and love for her God She peels back the dark layers exposing the light of life to relay the many testimonies of forgiveness revealing a renewed heart Traveling Beyond Her Sphere Bess Beatty, 2016-09-08 A history of American women challenging domesticity by touring Europe in the 19th and early 20th centuries The nineteenth century ideal of domesticity identified home as women s proper sphere but the ideal was frequently challenged profoundly so when woman left home and country to travel in foreign lands This book explores the reasons for and ramifications of women making a Grand Tour a trip to Europe between 1814 and 1914 this century between major European wars witnessed the golden age of American Grand Tours Men and women alike were inspired by a Euro centric education that valued the Old World as the fountainhead of their civilization Reaching Europe necessitated an Ocean crossing a disorienting time taking women far from domestic comfort Once abroad American women had to juggle accustomed norms of behavior with the demands of travel and customs of foreign lands Wearing proper attire even when hiking in the Alps coping with unfamiliar languages grappling with ever changing rules about customs and passports traveling alone these were just some of the challenges women faced when traveling Some traveled with their husband others with female relatives and friends and a few entirely alone Traveling companions had to agree on where to stay when and where to dine how to travel and where to go The sinking of the Titanic in 1912 made clear that even in the twentieth century a Grand Tour involved risk Because more women survived than men some insisted that the Titanic s example should curb female independence However a growing number of women continued making a Grand Tour for the next two years. It was the outbreak of war in Europe in 1914 that temporarily brought an end to a century of female Grand Tours. Beatty's ability to weave the experiences of hundreds of American women on the Grand Tour in Europe into a consistent narrative is per se a remarkable feat. But the author does much more than that. She uses the journey as trope to represent the long and difficult process of women's emancipation in its several cultural, psychological, social, and political dimensions.

Susanna Delfino, Professor of American History, retired University of Genoa, Italy. The Painting FK. WALLACE, Fiona K. Wallace, 2010. Stefan, a naive young Pole, meets Gunter, an artist, in 1930s Berlin. Their passionate love affair is overshadowed by the rise of the Third Reich. Denounced to the Nazis, they are sent to Auschwitz as pink triangle prisoners. Some things even love cannot withstand. Forty years later, Stefan returns to Poland with one question: when you have nothing left, how can you prove love ever existed? Berlin 1936: optimism fades and the freedoms of the Weimar Republic are little more than a memory, yet the inhabitants of the city blind themselves to the approaching disaster. The Painting is a story of love, of survival, of a life lived at the mercy of one of the most terrible events of the last century.

Playhouses and Privilege Abigail A. Van Slyck, 2025-02-11. Examining playhouses of the super rich to understand how architecture contributed to the construction of elite identity and modern childhood. Playhouses and Privilege explores children's playhouses built on British and American estates between the 1850s and the mid 1930s. Different from the prefabricated buildings that later populated suburban backyards, these playhouses were often fully functional cottages designed by well-known architects for British royalty, American industrialists, and Hollywood stars. As Abigail A. Van Slyck shows, these buildings were more than extravagant spaces to cultivate children's imaginations and fantasy lives. Reviewing a rich archive that includes extant buildings, site plans, family photographs, baby books, and intimate household correspondence, Van Slyck demonstrates that these structures were tools of social reproduction, shaped by elite parents' attitudes toward child-rearing, education, and class privilege. Recognizing playhouses as stages for the purposeful performance of upper-class identity, she illuminates their importance in influencing children to internalize gendered codes of conduct as they enacted rituals of hospitality and learned how to supervise servants. From Queen Victoria and Prince Albert's Swiss Cottage built on their Osborne estate in 1853 to the children's cottage constructed on the grounds of Cornelius Vanderbilt's Newport mansion in 1886 and from the miniature bungalow commissioned in 1926 for the Dodge Brothers Motor Company heiress to the corporate-sponsored glass block playhouse given to Shirley Temple in 1936, Van Slyck surveys a variety of playhouses and their milieus to trace the evolution of elite childhood and the broader social practices of wealth. Playhouses and Privilege makes clear that far from being frivolous, playhouses were carefully planned architectural manifestations of adult concerns integral to the reproduction of class privilege.
