

The poem As I Walked Out One Evening - W.H.Auden

4 pages | 975 words

The poem in study is As I Went Out One Night by W.H. Auden. His views predicted in this poem are suggested to have not varied given that the time he composed this piece. Unlike his other poems, this piece was never ever revised. Here, Auden exposes the two sides of romance through the control of narrative voices, the poet, the fan's tune and the chiming of the clock personified. As I left one evening is made up in a standard ballad type. It's includes 15 quatrain stanzas adhering to an "abcb" rhyme scheme. The manly end rhyme utilized provides more flexibility of phrasing. It is through these settings that shows the song-like quality of a ballad and by this lyrical tune, Auden recommends the style and theories examined in the poem are of childish reasoning and understanding. With reference to the structure of the poem, it comprises of 15 verses split into 3 distinctive voices. The first and last being the narrative by the poet himself, framing the Fan's Song and the enormous voice of the clock. Through the beginning narrative by the persona, W.H. Auden sets the essence of nostalgia with a "stroll down Bristol Street". The reference of Bristol Street develops the tone of reminiscence as it is a venue of Auden's childhood. The contrast of "crowds upon the pavement" that use to be "fields of harvest wheat" showcases the change taken location during time-lapse. Down by the brimming river, the poet hears a lover sing "love has no ending". The transition of narrative position from the preliminary personality to the Love Tune occurs through the marking of inverted commas. The rhythm of the poem also changes away from iambic trimeter when the love tune begins. The love song is hyperbolized, injected with imageries and non-traditional similes to overemphasize the love of a naïve lover. With tips of the remarkable capability to love "till China and Africa satisfy". Auden captures their simplified and unrealistic minds. The ridiculous and lighthearted tone revealed through the alliteration of the line "salmon sing in the street". In addition to undermining the forces of nature, the lover's song seem to believe its love to be pure and immune to time, for "in my arms I hold The Flower of the Ages, And the first love of the world". This love is expressed to be ageless, the Flower of the Ages a Biblical reference to the year of maturity in which a woman can marry. In a sense, the song provokes that the incredibility of love is beyond human entity, but of something greater. However, the tone shifts in the 6th stanza, turning to the narration of the clock and time personified. They seem to be rebuking the ideals embodied by the Lover's Song as they began to "whirr and chime", an onomatopoeia that creates the image of violent and unsettling wind. The wind that could break them apart, hit their faces with a chill. The clock conveys the negative perception of naïve love as it rings out a series of advice to the lovers. The Clock's advice is like a progression of a...
