Resources in Education ,1999 Will We Be Smart Enough? Earl Hunt,1995-07-20 The American workforce and the American workplace are rapidly changing in ways that make them increasingly incompatible Advances in automation and telecommunications have eliminated many jobs based on routine tasks and muscle power and fueled the demand for employees who can understand and apply new technologies But as Earl Hunt convincingly demonstrates in Will We Be Smart Enough such smart employees will be in dangerously short supply unless fundamental changes are made to our educational and vocational systems Will We Be Smart Enough combines cognitive theory demographic projections and psychometric research to measure the capabilities of tomorrow s workforce against the needs of tomorrow s workplace Characterized by sophisticated machinery instant global communication and continuous reorganization the workplace will call for people to fuse multiple responsibilities adapt quickly to new trends and take a creative approach to problem solving Will Americans be able to meet the difficult and unprecedented challenges brought about by these innovations Hunt examines data from demographic sources and a broad array of intelligence tests whose fairness and validity he judiciously assesses He shows that the U S labor force will be increasingly populated by older workers who frequently lack the cognitive flexibility required by rapid change and by racial and ethnic minorities who have so far not fully benefitted from the nation s schools to develop the cognitive skills necessary in a technologically advanced workplace At the heart of Will We Be Smart Enough lies the premise that this forecast can be altered and that cognitive skills can be widely and successfully taught Hunt applies psychological principles of learning and cognitive science to a variety of experimental teaching programs and shows how the information revolution which has created such rapid change in the workplace can also be used to transform the educational process and nurture the skills that the workplace of the future will require Will We Be Smart Enough answers naysayers who pronounce so many people cognitively disadvantaged by suggesting that new forms of education can provide workers with enhanced skills and productive employment in the twenty first century Hunt s book provides succinct lucid presentations of our best scientific understandings of thinking intelligence job performance and how to measure them Only by comprehending and applying these understandings to develop sound educational and instructional strategies can we create a capable workforce for the digital age John T Bruer President James S McDonnell Foundation

Intentional From the Start Carolyn Helmers,Susan Vincent,2023-10-10 Intentional from the Start Guiding Emergent Readers in Small Groups Carolyn Helmers and Susan Vincent take a concentrated look at the often underestimated reading and writing work that occurs during the emergent reading stages of literacy development PreA D and the seemingly simplistic books we use to teach them in small group guided reading Though both may appear unsophisticated these earliest readers and the texts we use to meet their needs are each unique and full of nuances that generally go overlooked The authors explore how emergent readers learn best and position text levels appropriately in the service of students They also turn their attention to a comprehensive exploration of the particular needs of emergent readers and how the work they do at text levels PreA D lays a critical foundation necessary for them to continue growing successfully into text levels E and beyond As they examine the needs of learners working at each emergent text level individually the authors Detail specific demands books in that text level make on young readers and the best ways to coach students as they work through them Highlight instructional procedures for reading writing and word study that can be implemented immediately at your small group table Suggest optimal schedules techniques and formats for efficient instruction at that level Unpack the book characteristics specific to that level and demonstrate ways to capitalize on them to intentionally support emergent readers and writers With plenty of useful classroom examples as well as additional online resources with literacy center ideas that correlate directly with the work students are doing at particular levels this book is a resource your emergent reading teacher heart will reach for again and again

Teaching for Racial Equity Tonya B. Perry, Steven Zemelman, Katy Smith, 2023-10-10 Recipient of the 2022 Excellence in Equity Award It is not enough to be against racism in education teachers must be actively antiracist Yet how do we start reflecting on our own beliefs and lives so we can truly teach for racial literacy In the award winning Teaching for Racial Equity Becoming Interrupters authors Tonya Perry Steven Zemelman and Katy Smith engage in honest conversations between educators of color and their white colleagues Authentic inspiring and sometimes uncomfortable teachers share stories of personal histories and experiences that shaped them as people and educators In this book you will find Strategies to understand different backgrounds through a racial lens and ways to address potentially difficult conversations with fellow educators In depth overview of Yolanda Sealey Ruiz s Archaeology of SelfTM and how it can be personally and professionally adopted Lists of resources for teaching about and actively interrupting racism in education and tools that document systemic inequalities in the classroom Ways to facilitate student led conversations which examine race and inequitable conditions found nationwide By examining inequalities found at a systemic level teachers can start to remove some of their internal biases and allow students to show who they truly are In turn this can help create a school curriculum that makes space for BIPOC voices that inspire and invite students to share Teaching for Racial Equity Becoming Interrupters provides a resource for teachers and educators to critically reflect and begin work to interrupt racism at all levels
