Literature in all forms—fiction, nonfiction, and poetry—is used by teachers as a tool for language acquisition and learning. Reading improves students' cognitive growth. It also gives teachers the chance to underline key morals and teachings that kids need to learn as they mature.

The Victorian Era in Twenty-First Century Children's and Adolescent Literature and Culture Sonya Sawyer Fritz, Sara K. Day, 2018-01-19

Victorian literature for audiences of all ages provides a broad foundation upon which to explore complex and evolving ideas about young people. In turn, this collection argues contemporary works for young people that draw on Victorian literature and culture ultimately reflect our own disruptions and upheavals particularly as they relate to child and adolescent readers and our experiences of them. The essays therein suggest that we struggle now as the Victorians did then to assert a cohesive understanding of young readers and that this lack of cohesion is a result of or a parallel to the disruptions taking place on a larger even global scale.

Reading Madeleine L'Engle Heidi A. Lawrence, 2023-10-20 Using a critical lens derived from ecopsychology and its praxis ecotherapy, this book explores the relationships Madeleine L'Engle develops for her characters in a selection of the novels from her three Time Austin family and O Keefe family series as those relationships develop along a human/nonhuman kinship continuum. This is accomplished through an examination both of pairs of novels from the fantastic and the realistic series and of single novels which stand out as slightly different from the most prominent genre in a given series. Thus, this examination also shows L'Engle's fluid movement along a fantasy/reality continuum and demonstrates the integration of the three series with each other. Importantly, through examining these relationships and this movement along continuums in these novels, the project demonstrates how ecopsychology and ecotherapy provide strong and important and as yet virtually unexplored intersections with children's literature.
