Bruce, 2020-12-31 George H Locke chief librarian of the Toronto Public Library between 1908 and 1937 was Canada's foremost library administrator in the first part of the twentieth century During this period free public libraries and librarianship in Ontario expanded rapidly due to the philanthropy of Andrew Carnegie improvements in library education and the influence of American library services Locke was closely associated with all these trends however his outlook was primarily guided by his Methodist upbringing the Anglo Canadian academic tradition of British Idealism and his association with John Dewey's contribution to American progressive education These religious and intellectual strands encouraged personal action to improve social conditions As director of Toronto's libraries he brought his ambitious ideas to bear in many ways the building of neighbourhood branches library service for children formal education for librarians suitable reading for immigrants and young adults and the idea of the public library as a municipal partner in the self education of adult Canadians By 1930 Toronto's public library system was recognized as one of the best in North America and George Locke's reputation as a visionary leader had vaulted him to the Presidency of the American Library Association Although he had created a large organization that might have succumbed to bureaucratic practices and formalized centralization Locke resisted this development He remained faithful to his moral intellectual and humanistic values acquired during his early schooling and university career For Locke libraries and librarians were less about organization and formal duties Both needed to be faithful to the main principle of serving the public interest by delivering knowledge and by guiding individual self development through experiential learning and transcendent ideals Government Publications Bernard M.
