Scandinavian Museums and Cultural Diversity Katherine J. Goodnow, Haci Akman, 2008-09 Museums across the world are facing the task of capturing reflecting and representing the notion of complex identities personal religious and ethnic Narratives of national allegiances are being slowly replaced and supplemented by indigenous and minority voices providing a more complex understanding of diversity especially where intangible heritage is called on as a witness The approach taken by Scandinavian museums in response to this challenge highlights the hybrid forms of cultural diversity and how they interrelate and work together By bringing together debates and discussions of identity and diversity this volume offers a particular insight into a broad geographic region and its diverse people from the Sami and the limit to new migrants It also presents a set of historical views on the formation of national museums and their contested perceptions of identity Whilst developing new arguments and furthering an ongoing debate it offers museum curators possible ways forward BOOK

JACKET Landscape and Nature in Scandinavian Art MaryClaire Pappas, Tonje Haugland Sørensen, 2025-04-16 This edited volume foregrounds new and vital scholarship shaping Scandinavian art historical research on the representations of the natural world Contributors deconstruct the interlinking of people and land through critical readings of the Scandinavian representation of nature bringing to the fore how the traditional focus on the landscape as a manifestation of temperament has tended to obfuscate critical approaches to the representation of the landscape Making interdisciplinary connections this volume redresses the imbalance in scholarship on the region that often emphasizes teleological national narratives and instead situates encounters with nature and the landscape in relationship to more interdisciplinary perspectives Each chapter serves as a specific case study on topics ranging from circumpolar exploration and colonial practices deconstructing National Romanticism myths and contemporary artistic responses to the history of the politics of land The book will be of

Scandinavian Museums and Cultural Diversity Katherine Goodnow, Haci Akman, 2008-09-01 Museums face the task of representing the similarities and differences that exist between groups such as national identities and indigenous and minority voices material and intangible heritage and current status and past history In order to achieve this aim a complex and not always easily compatible set of interests have to be taken into account from those of the museum itself to those of its main audiences sources of support and the groups that are or wish to be represented The approach taken by Scandinavian museums in response to this challenge highlights a very active concern for forms of cultural diversity and how they are interrelated By bringing together debates and discussions of diversity this volume offers insight into the Nordic region and its diverse peoples from the Sami and the Inuit to newer immigrants It presents a set of historical reviews on the formation of national museums and emerging and contested perceptions of national identity Furthering the general debate on representations of diversity and museums it also offers museum curators possible ways forward City of Remembering Susan Tucker, 2016-05-19 City of Remembering represents a rich testament to the persistence of a passionate form of public history In exploring one particular community of family historians in New Orleans Susan Tucker reveals how genealogists elevate a sort of subterranean foundation of the city sepia photographs of the Vieux Carré sturdy pages of birth registrations from St Louis Cathedral small scraps of the earliest French Superior Council records elegant and weighty leaves of papers used by notaries and ledgers from the judicial deliberations of the Illustrious Spanish Cabildo They also explore coded letters left by mistake accounts carried over oceans and gentle prods of dying children to be counted and thus to be remembered Most of all the family historians speak of continual beginnings both in the genesis of their own research processes but also of American dreams that value the worth of every individual life The author an archivist who has worked for over thirty years asking questions about how records figure in the lives of individuals and cultures also presents a national picture of genealogy's origins uses changing forms and purposes Tucker examines both the past and the present and draws from oral history interviews ethnographic fieldwork and archival research Illustrations come from individuals archives and libraries in New Orleans Richmond Washington DC and Salt Lake City as well as Massachusetts and Wisconsin demonstrating the contrasts between regions and how those practitioners approach their work in each setting Ultimately Tucker shows that genealogy is more than simply tracing lineage the pursuit becomes a fascinating window into people neighborhoods and the daily life of those individuals who came before us
