Society of New York. Department of Exploration and Field Research,1975 Designing Information Joel Katz,2012-08-20

The book itself is a diagram of clarification containing hundreds of examples of work by those who favor the communication of information over style and academic postulation and those who don't. Many blurbs such as this are written without a thorough reading of the book. Not so in this case. I read it and love it. I suggest you do the same. Richard Saul Wurman. This handsome, clearly organized book is itself a prime example of the effective presentation of complex visual information, e.g. magazine. It is a dream book we were waiting for on the field of information. On top of the incredible amount of presented knowledge, this is also a beautifully designed piece, very easy to follow. Krzysztof Lenk, author of Mapping Websites. Digital Media Design: Making complicated information understandable is becoming the crucial task facing designers in the 21st century. With Designing Information, Joel Katz has created what will surely be an indispensable textbook on the subject. Michael Bierut. Having had the pleasure of a sneak preview, I can only say that this is a magnificent achievement: a combination of intelligent text, fascinating insights, and oh yes, graphics. Congratulations to Joel. Judith Harris, author of Pompeii Awakened: A Story of Rediscovery. Designing Information shows designers in all fields, from user interface design to architecture and engineering, how to design complex data and information for meaning, relevance, and clarity. Written by a worldwide authority on the visualization of complex information, this full-color, heavily illustrated guide provides real-life problems and examples as well as hypothetical and historical examples demonstrating the conceptual and pragmatic aspects of human factors-driven information design. Both successful and failed design examples are included to help readers understand the principles under discussion. Physical and Cultural Space in Pre-Industrial Europe Marko Lamberg, Marko Hakanen, Janne Haikari, 2011-01-11. Written by 19 scholars of history, archaeology, and ethnology, this book takes a multidisciplinary approach to European spaces of the past and the human agents within them. Prior to the Industrial Era, the geography of Europe posed problems but also offered possibilities for its people. Distances created obstacles to communication and state formation, but at the same time, inhabitants and officials in peripheral areas gained room to pursue more independent action, allowing unique customs to flourish. Focusing on northern Europe, this history answers how early modern Europeans, rulers, officials, aristocrats, scholars, priests, and commoners perceived, utilized, and organized the space around them. Erikson, Eskimos & Columbus James Robert Enterline, 2003-05-01. This revealing analysis of Medieval cartography and native American travel upends conventional narratives about discovering the New World. For generations, American schools have taught children that Christopher Columbus discovered America in 1492. But evidence shows that Leif Erikson set foot on the continent centuries earlier. As debate continues over which explorer deserves the credit, early maps of North America suggest that we may be asking the wrong questions. How did medieval Europeans have such specific geographic knowledge of North America, a land even their most daring adventurers had not yet discovered? In Erikson, Eskimos and Columbus, James Robert Enterline presents new evidence that traces this knowledge to the cartographic skills of indigenous people of the high Arctic who he contends provided the basis for medieval maps of large parts of North America Drawing on an exhaustive chronological survey of pre Columbian maps including the controversial Yale Vinland Map this book boldly challenges conventional accounts of Europe s discovery of the New World An Annotated Bibliography on Climatic Maps of Sweden United States. Weather Bureau, Annie E. Grimes, 1961 The document lists 73 reports by title and author and includes descriptive comments concerning the content of these reports The World Map Directory 1992-1993 Aaron Maizlish, William Tefft, 1992 A catalogue of the maps and charts in the library of Harvard university Harvard university libr, 1831 Journal - Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland, 1900
