The 1931-1940: American Film Institute Catalog of Motion Pictures Produced in the United States American Film Institute, 1993 The entire field of film historians awaits the AFI volumes with eagerness Eileen Bowser Museum of Modern Art Film Department Comments on previous volumes The source of last resort for finding socially valuable films that received such scant attention that they seem lost until discovered in the AFI Catalog Thomas Cripps Endlessly absorbing as an excursion into cultural history and national memory Arthur Schlesinger Jr Style and Meaning John Gibbs, Douglas Pye, 2005-08-06 With a common focus on the decisions made by filmmakers the essays in this collection explore different aspects of the relationship between textual detail and broader conceptual frameworks These texts reflect not only those areas of film history which have traditionally been explored through mise en scene criticism but also areas such as the avant garde and television drama which have not tended to receive such detailed investigation In these ways the book conducts a series of dialogues with issues in film study which are specifically provoked by close analysis Film Performance Andrew Klevan, 2019-06-11 Performers make a crucial contribution to the achievement of narrative films By moving through exemplary sequences this book closely follows the movement and behaviour of screen performers Charlie Chaplin Laurel and Hardy Cary Grant Katherine Hepburn Marlene Dietrich Barbara Stanwyck Richard Widmark and by emphasising their relationship to other aspects of film style camera location and plot it develops accounts that are specific and involved This study concentrates on films from the Golden Age of Hollywood and moment by moment descriptions enable fresh interpretations to emerge and evolve These reveal the significance and intensity of a performer's engagement with the world of a film Border Crossing Alexander Burry, 2016-04-08 Each time a border is crossed there are cultural political and social issues to be considered Applying the metaphor of the border crossing from one temporal or spatial territory into another Border Crossing Russian Literature into Film examines the way classic Russian texts have been altered to suit new cinematic environments In these essays international scholars examine how political and economic circumstances from a shifting Soviet political landscape to the perceived demands of American and European markets have played a crucial role in dictating how filmmakers transpose their cinematic hypertext into a new environment Rather than focus on the degree of accuracy or fidelity with which these films address their originating texts this innovative collection explores the role of ideological political and other cultural pressures that can affect the transformation of literary narratives into cinematic offerings Dressing the Part Sybil DelGaudio, 1993 This work examines the way in which the unique partnership of director Sternberg star Marlene Dietrich studio Paramount and designer Travis Banton created a series of films in which costume functions as a sign to structure each film's narrative and thematic design Illustrated Marlene Marlene Dietrich, 2022-08-16 DIVA fascinating self portrait of one of the greatest entertainers of Hollywood's golden age divDIV Film star Cabaret sensation Recording artist Writer Marlene Dietrich was nothing short of enchanting and remains so as she chronicles her fabulous rise to stardom in Marlene Dietrich. From her early career in Germany as a chorus girl to her breakout role as Lola in The Blue Angel to her courageous wartime tours, Dietrich recounts a life that captivates on the page just as she smoldered on the screen. She writes passionately of her friends including Charlie Chaplin, Orson Welles, and Edith Piaf among many others, and she shares memories of what she calls her greatest accomplishment: entertaining the Allied troops during World War II. A sustained expression of her bold, sophisticated style, Marlene reminds us why Dietrich remains an international icon and a true Hollywood legend. div In the Realm of Pleasure Gaylyn Studlar, 1992

In a major revision of feminist psychoanalytic theories of film pleasure and sexual difference, Studlar's close textual analysis of the six Paramount films directed by Josef von Sternberg and starring Marlene Dietrich probes the source of their visual and psychological complexity. Borrowing from Gilles Deleuze's psychoanalytic literary approach, Studlar shows how masochism extends beyond the clinical realm into the arena of artistic form, language, and production of pleasure. The author's examination of the von Sternberg-Dietrich collaborations shows how these films, with the mother figure embodied in the alluring yet androgynous Dietrich, offer a key for understanding film's masochistic aesthetic. Studlar argues that masochism's broader significance to film study lies in the similarities between the structures of perversion and those of the cinematic apparatus as a dream screen, reviving archaic visual pleasures for both male and female spectators. Dietrich's Ghosts Erica Carter, 2019-07-25

This text looks at the star system under the Third Reich. Following the experiments of Weimar, much of cinema after 1933 became part of a wider Nazi backlash against modernism in all its forms. This study contributes to contemporary debates concerning the historical study of film spectatorship. Royal Portraits in Hollywood Elizabeth Ford, 2009-06-26

In the history of cinema, many film genres have gained and lost popularity with the changing times, but one has maintained its supreme reign: the royal biopic. In Royal Portraits in Hollywood: Filming the Lives of Queens, authors Elizabeth A. Ford and Deborah C. Mitchell follow the lives of historical queens as depicted on film from the 1930s to the present. Women as diverse as Catherine the Great, Cleopatra, Mary Stuart, and Marie Antoinette have been represented on the silver screen, dominating the masculine world of politics while maintaining their femininity. During the golden age of American film, these roles gave Hollywood a means of portraying powerful women without threatening the patriarchal social order. Depictions of the lives of queens have progressed from idealized and romanticized portraits to the more personal, complex portrayals of modern Hollywood. By walking the line between fact and fiction, these royal portraits of queens reveal just as much about our society as they do about the historical periods they represent. Audiences are drawn to the theaters year after year because the lives of queens promise good drama and attract some of the most talented actresses. The success of Hollywood's leading ladies in playing queens further solidifies the link between Hollywood royalty and authentic royalty. Actresses such as Bette Davis, Judy Dench, Helen Mirren, Elizabeth Taylor, and Greta Garbo have done more than influence the way we imagine historical queens; they also have changed how we perceive women in powerful positions today. Royal Portraits in Hollywood analyzes seventy five years of films about queens as well as the lives of the actresses who starred in them Combining biographical sketches and excerpts from letters and journals Ford and Mitchell show how filmmaking and our society's perceptions of gender have changed The authors compare Hollywood's on screen portrayals to the historical records often drawing connections to the actresses careers and personal lives This comprehensive analysis provides a more complete picture of the lives that take place behind the thrones both real and fictional The spectacle of a woman dressed in the full regalia of power remains a compelling image in our society Hollywood actresses and the queens they portray are women who wield power and by examining the lives of these women the authors reveal not only society's perceptions about female power but also how those perceptions continue to evolve

Sternberg and Dietrich James Phillips, 2019-02-01 James Phillips's Sternberg and Dietrich The Phenomenology of Spectacle reappraises the cinematic collaboration between the Austrian American filmmaker Josef von Sternberg 1894-1969 and the German American actor Marlene Dietrich 1901-92 Considered by his contemporaries one of the most significant directors of interwar Hollywood Sternberg made seven films with Dietrich that helped establish her as a style icon and star and entrenched his own reputation for extravagance and aesthetic spectacle These films enriched the technical repertoire of the industry challenged the sexual mores of the times and notoriously tried the patience of management at Paramount Studios Sternberg and Dietrich The Phenomenology of Spectacle demonstrates how under Sternberg's direction Paramount's sound stages became laboratories for novel thought experiments Analysing in depth the last four films on which Sternberg and Dietrich worked together Phillips reconstructs the cinematic philosophy that Sternberg claimed for himself in his autobiography and for whose fullest expression Dietrich was indispensable This book makes a case for the originality and perceptiveness with which these films treat such issues as the nature of trust the status of appearance the standing of women the ethics and politics of the image and the relationship between cinema and the world Sternberg and Dietrich The Phenomenology of Spectacle reveals that more is at stake in these films than the showcasing of a new star and the confectionery of glamour Dietrich emerges here as a woman who is at ease in the world without being at home in it an image of autonomy whose critical potential has yet to be realized let alone exhausted

Spectacle in Classical Cinemas Tom Brown, 2015-08-11 Spectacle is not often considered to be a significant part of the style of classical cinema Indeed some of the most influential accounts of cinematic classicism define it virtually by the supposed absence of spectacle Spectacle in Classical Cinemas Musicality and Historicity in the 1930s brings a fresh perspective on the role of the spectacular in classical sound cinema by focusing on one decade of cinema the 1930s in two modes of filmmaking musical and historical films and in two national cinemas the US and France This not only brings to light the special rhetorical and affective possibilities offered by spectacular images but refines our understanding of what classical cinema is and was

Spectatorship Roxanne Samer,William Whittington,2017-10-25 Media platforms continually evolve but the issues surrounding media representations of gender and sexuality have persisted across decades Spectator The University of Southern California Journal of Film and Television Criticism has published groundbreaking articles on gender and sexuality including some that have become canonical in film studies since the journal's founding in 1982. This anthology collects seventeen key articles that will enable readers to revisit foundational concerns about gender in media and discover models of analysis that can be applied to the changing media world today. Spectatorship begins with articles that consider issues of spectatorship in film and television content and audience reception, noting how media studies has expanded as a field and demonstrating how theories of gender and sexuality have adapted to new media platforms. Subsequent articles show how new theories emerged from that initial scholarship, helping to develop the fields of fandom, transmedia, and queer theory. The most recent work in this volume is particularly timely as the distinctions between media producers and media spectators grow more fluid and as the transformation of media structures and platforms prompts new understandings of gender, sexuality, and identification. Connecting contemporary approaches to media with critical conversations of the past, Spectatorship thus offers important points of historical and critical departure for discussion in both the classroom and the field.
