Mahoney, 2013-11-11 For almost three millennia philosophy and its more pragmatic offspring psychology and the cognitive sciences have struggled to understand the complex principles reflected in the patterned operations of the human mind What is knowledge How does it relate to what we feel and do What are the fundamental processes underlying attention perception intention learning memory and consciousness How are thought feeling and action related and what are the practical implications of our current knowledge for the everyday priorities of parenting education and counseling Such meaningful and fascinating questions lie at the heart of contemporary attempts to build a stronger working alliance among the fields of epistemology theories of knowledge the cognitive sciences and psychotherapy The proliferation and pervasiveness of what some have called cognitivism throughout all quarters of modern psychology represent a phenomenon of paradigmatic proportions The re emergence of cognitive concepts and perspectives whether portrayed as revolutionary reactive or evolutionary developmental in nature marks what may well be the single most formative theme in late twentieth century psychology Skeptics of the cognitive movement if it may be so called can readily note the necessary limits and liabilities of naive forms of metaphysics and mentalism The history of human ideas is writ large in the polarities of in here and out there from Plato Pythagoras and Kant to Locke Bacon and Watson A Handbook of Play Therapy with Aggressive Children David A. Crenshaw, John B. Lacan at the Scene Henry Bond, 2012-09-21 A Lacanian approach to murder scene investigation What if Jacques Lacan the brilliant and eccentric Parisian psychoanalyst had worked as a police detective applying his theories to solve crimes This may conjure up a mental film clip starring Peter Sellers in a trench coat but in Lacan at the Scene Henry Bond makes a serious and provocative claim that apparently impenetrable events of violent death can be more effectively unraveled with Lacan's theory of psychoanalysis than with elaborate technologically advanced forensic tools Bond's exposition on murder expands and develops a resolutely i ekian approach Seeking out radical and unexpected readings Bond unpacks his material utilizing Lacan's neurosis psychosis perversion grid Bond places Lacan at the crime scene and builds his argument through a series of archival crime scene photographs from the 1950s the period when Lacan was developing his influential theories It is not the horror of the ravished and mutilated corpses that draws his attention instead he interrogates seemingly minor details from the everyday isolating and rephotographing what at first seems insignificant a single high heeled shoe on a kitchen table for example or carefully folded clothes placed over a chair From these mundane details he carefully builds a robust and comprehensive manual for Lacanian crime investigation that can stand beside the FBI's standard issue Crime Classification Manual

Handbook of Restorative Justice , Creating Change for Complex Children and Their Families: Setting the scene. 2. Therapeutic engagement. 3. Structure and containment. 4. A nurturing environment. 5. Accessing learning. 6. Fostering the child's social world. 7. Understanding the individual. 8. Understanding the family. 9. Multi-family work. 10. Creating a new story. 11. Feedback and evolution Jo Holmes, Amelia Oldfield, Marion Polichroniadis, 2011 Caring for a child with complex mental health needs affects the entire family This book provides detailed case studies to illustrate the model used by the Croft Child and Family Unit to help these children and their families Using a multi disciplinary approach the interventions produce positive changes to these children Child Behavior Therapy Casebook Michel Hersen, Cynthia G. Last, 2012-12-06 Some years ago we edited a general casebook on behavior therapy that was well received However those professors who used the book as an adjunct text in child behavior therapy courses were concerned that only 9 of the 26 chapters dealt with the clinical application of behavioral principles to children Their contention was that a specific casebook on the topic was very much warranted In considering their comments we took a closer look at the child behavior therapy area and were struck with how diverse it was how it had expanded and how it had matured over the last three decades Given this apparent gap in the literature we decided to devote an entire casebook to both the standard and the more innovative clinical applications to the behavioral problems presented by children The resulting book containing 28 chapters is divided into two parts In the first part in a chapter entitled How the Field Has Moved On we briefly trace the historical roots of child behavior therapy detail the relationship of psychiatric diagnosis and behavioral assessment and consider the importance of developmental norms psychological testing efforts at prevention and behavioral medicine The bulk of this book of course appears in the 27 cases presented by our respective experts Each of the treatment cases is presented in identical format for purposes of clarity consistency and comparability

Television and the Exceptional Child Joyce Sprafkin, Kenneth D. Gadow, Robert Abelman, 2013-10-23 The question of what types of children are most influenced by or can best benefit from television is a recurrent theme in the scientific literature as well as a frequently raised issue for pediatric associations educators and parent citizen groups concerned about the welfare and advancement of young children To effectively address this question this book focuses on a wide variety of children with highly divergent cognitive abilities social skills and educational capacities that is those labeled as emotionally disturbed learning disabled mentally retarded and intellectually gifted These children not only possess characteristics that place them at the greatest risk with regard to television's negative impact but also in a position to most benefit from the purposeful use of the medium at home and in the classroom Combining literature from the fields of mass communication developmental psychology and special education the authors present a comprehensive analysis of television and its forgotten audience Practical implications and applications in the home and school are also extracted from research findings making this volume a valuable resource for students educators and researchers in the fields of communication and special education and for the parents and teachers of exceptional children
