Scholarship And Nation Building:

Editing the Nation's Memory, 2015-07-14 Europe's nation states emerged from a complex of nineteenth century developments in which cultural consciousness raising played a formative role. The nineteenth century reflection on Europe's national identities involved a re-inventory and revalorisation of the vernacular cultural past and above all the nation's literary heritage. Everywhere in Europe foundational texts including medieval epics and romances, ancient laws and chronicles were retrieved from their obscure repositories. In new printed editions prepared according to the emerging academic standards of textual scholarship they were appropriated, contested and canonised as public symbols of the nation's permanence in history. This often neglected but crucially important Europe-wide process of editing the nation's memory involved old states and emerging nations, large and small, countries, metropolitan and peripheral regions. It straddled politics, the academic professionalization of textual scholarship and of the human sciences and literary taste. This collection of studies by outstanding specialists offers a comparative synopsis on exemplary cases from all corners of the European continent.

Scholarship and Nation Building John E. Craig, 1984 Andrés Bello Ivan Jaksic, 2006-11-02 This book, a length intellectual biography of Andrés Bello first published in 2001, is the first to appear in English. Bello, the most important intellectual of nineteenth century Latin America, made enduring contributions to the fields of international law, civil legislation, grammar and philology. He was also a poet of note, a literary critic and an influential statesman whose contributions to nation building and Spanish American identity are widely recognized across the region. In this book Jaksic provides an archival based critical account that challenges the celebratory literature that has dominated Bello studies. He demonstrates how knowledge of Bello's contributions illuminate not only Latin American history but also current issues of imperial fragmentation, nationalism and language.

Nation-Building and Citizenship Reinhard Bendix, 2017-07-05 Nation Building and Citizenship examines how states and civil societies interact in their formation of a new political community. Reinhard Bendix directs our attention to relations established between individual and state during nation building. While the development of citizenship and the interplay between tradition and modernity are important in this process of social and political change, his key theme is the examination of authority patterns. Bendix explores in depth the possibilities of an alternative approach to the neo-evolutionary orientation many social scientists take in their analyses of the underdeveloped areas of the world. The subjects he discusses include transformations of Western European societies since medieval times, extension of citizenship to the lower classes, bureaucratization in the nation state, private and public authority in Western Europe and Russia, aristocracies and development in Germany and Japan, and the development of public authority in India's political community. The book concludes with a reconsideration of ideas widely held about tradition, modernity and modernization. In a new introduction John Bendix writes that what continues to make this book relevant is not only what it can tell us about past and present nation building including the transformations of the 1980s and 1990s but its more general messages about the nature of social and political transformations Nation Building and Citizenship is a necessary addition to the libraries of political scientists sociologists historians and scholars of comparative studies

Soviet Nation-Building in Central Asia Grigol Ubiria, 2015-09-16 The demise of the Soviet Union in 1991 resulted in new state led nation building projects in Central Asia The emergence of independent republics spawned a renewed Western scholarly interest in the region's nationality issues Presenting a detailed study this book examines the state led nation building projects in the Soviet republics of Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan Exploring the degree forms and ways of the Soviet state involvement in creating Kazakh and Uzbek nations this book places the discussion within the theoretical literature on nationalism The author argues that both Kazakh and Uzbek nations are artificial constructs of Moscow based Soviet policy makers of the 1920s and 1930s This book challenges existing arguments in current scholarship by bringing some new and alternative insights into the role of indigenous Central Asian and Soviet officials in these nation building projects It goes on to critically examine post Soviet official Kazakh and Uzbek historiographies according to which Kazakh and Uzbek peoples had developed national collective identities and loyalties long before the Soviet era This book will be a useful contribution to Central Asian History and Politics as well as studies of Nationalism and Soviet Politics
