the Shadow of Ukraine Seth G. Jones, 2023-12-28 This CSIS report asks two main questions How is the Russian military thinking about the future of warfare How is the Russian military thinking about force design over the next five years The report has several findings First Russian military thinking is dominated by a view that the United States is and will remain Moscow's main enemy for the foreseeable future This sentiment will likely drive Moscow's desire to reconstitute its military as rapidly as possible as well as strengthen nuclear and conventional deterrence Second Russian analyses generally conclude that while the nature of warfare is unchanging the character of future warfare will rapidly evolve Adapting will require Russia's cooperation with other countries such as China in areas like long range high precision weapons unmanned systems emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence and the utility of hybrid and irregular warfare Third Russian political and military leaders are committed to a major reconstitution of the Russian military including the army over the next several years

Aid Paradoxes in Afghanistan Nematullah Bizhan, 2017-08-14 The relationship between aid and state building is highly complex and the effects of aid on weak states depend on donors' interests aid modalities and the recipient's pre-existing institutional and socio-political conditions This book argues that in the case of Afghanistan the country inherited conditions that were not favourable for effective state building Although some of the problems that emerged in the post 2001 state building process were predictable the types of interventions that occurred including an aid architecture which largely bypassed the state the subordination of state building to the war on terror and the short horizon policy choices of donors and the Afghan government reduced the effectiveness of the aid and undermined effective state building By examining how foreign aid affected state building in Afghanistan since the US militarily intervened in Afghanistan in late 2001 until the end of President Hamid Karzai's first term in 2009 this book reveals the dynamic and complex relations between the Afghan government and foreign donors in their efforts to rebuild state institutions The work explores three key areas how donors supported government reforms to improve the taxation system how government reorganized the state's fiscal management system and how aid dependency and aid distribution outside the government budget affected interactions between state and society Given that external revenue in the form of tribute subsidies and aid has shaped the characteristics of the state in Afghanistan since the mid-eighteenth century this book situates state building in a historical context This book will be invaluable for practitioners and anyone studying political economy state building international development and the politics of foreign aid

Alikuzai,2013-10 For 35 000 years ancient Afghanistan was called Aryana the Light of God has existed Then in 747 AD what is today called Afghanistan became Khorasan which means Sunrise in Dari which was a much larger geographical area In the middle of the nineteenth century the name Afghanistan which means home of the united tribes was applied originally by the Saxons present day British and the Russians During the Great Games in the middle of nineteenth century the Durand Line was created in 1893 and was in place until 1993 Saxons created the state of Afghanistan out of a geographical area roughly the size of Texas in 1893 before which there were 10 million square kilometers larger than the size of Canada as means to act as a buffer zone between the Saxon India Tsarist Russia and the Chinese

Outlook ,2008-01-21      Militia Order in Afghanistan Matthew P. Dearing,2021-07-18 This book offers a new insight into when and why paramilitary groups in Afghanistan engage in protective or predatory behavior against the civilians they purportedly defend In Afghanistan s counterinsurgency environment America leaned on militias to provide order and stabilize communities cut off from weak central government institutions However the lucrative market of protection challenged militia loyalty as many engaged in banditry vendettas and predation This book examines the varying militia experiments in Afghanistan from 2001 to 2020 and their outcomes through three sub national case studies It argues that successful militia experiments in Afghanistan involved inclusion of local orders where communities had well established social structures and accountability mechanisms in place and state patrons relied upon those structures as a restraint against militia behavior Complementary management ensured patrons leaned on communities for strong accountability systems But such environments were far from the norm When patrons ignored community controls militias preyed on civilians as they monopolized the market of protection This book adds to the rich literature on the U S experience in Afghanistan but differs by focusing on the interplay between states communities and militias This book will be of much interest to students of military and strategic studies Asian politics security studies and International Relations

Life and Security in Rural Afghanistan Neamatollah Nojumi,Dyan Mazurana,Elizabeth Stites,2010-01-06 To access the maps mentioned in this book Click Here Despite the fall of the Taliban Afghanistan remains a country in dire need of strong international support Only with an understanding of the conditions in both urban and rural areas will the international community be able to offer aid and remain committed to long term development This fascinating and clearly written book mines a rich and unique array of data which was collected in rural areas of Afghanistan by an expert team of researchers to analyze countrywide trends in the relationship between human security and livelihoods The team s research and recommendations published here for the first time suggest that international assistance or national development strategies that ignore the long term developmental and structural goals and sideline the moderate elements of Afghan society will be doomed to failure The authors deeply informed policy recommendations will help to focus further action on vital issues such as co optation of aid by armed political groups water scarcity contamination and degradation of the environment education health care agriculture livestock and land health and justice A valuable resource for students policymakers donor governments and national and international organizations Life and Security in Rural Afghanistan opens a rare window into the otherwise hidden lives of the people of rural Afghanistan
