On the Margins of Inclusion David M. Smith, 2005-09-21 Offers an account of how different groups of economically marginal people have adapted to and negotiate the offerings of a post industrial labour market and a welfare system geared towards reintegrating them into employment This book highlights strategies and responses to changes using ethnography to illuminate key issues in sociology New Perspectives on Health, Disability, Welfare and the Labour Market Colin

Lindsay, Bent Greve, Ignazio Cabras, Nick Ellison, Stephen Kellett, 2015-08-18 Bringing together researchers from the fields of social policy economics sociology and clinical psychology this book offers new evidence on the inter related problems faced by disability claimants and identifies important lessons for policy Explores how reducing the level of UK benefit claiming among those with health limitations has been a priority for successive governments Argues that current policy fails to reflect the evidence that people on long term disability benefits face a complex combination of barriers to work and social inclusion Demonstrates that there is a need for continuing inter disciplinary research on the nature of the disability benefits problem and the efficacy of current policy solutions and public services Young People, Class and Place Robert

MacDonald, Tracy Shildrick, Shane Blackman, 2013-10-18 Under the weight of apparently growing consumer affluence globalisation and post modern social theory many have proclaimed the declining significance of social class and place to young people s lives and for social science Drawing upon new empirically grounded theoretically innovative studies this volume begs to differ It argues that the youth phase provides a privileged vantage point from which to interrogate and think about broader processes of social change and social continuity These themes are addressed by all the diverse contributions gathered here The chapters include investigation of the problems of growing up in gang neighbourhoods and young people s use of space for leisure new patterns of class formation and youth transition in Eastern Europe the effects of classed labels and identities such as chav and charver in youth culture and schooling the changing meanings of class and place for young women in changing socio economic landscapes new patterns of youth culture and transition among Black young men in East London and how we think and theorise about change and continuity in youth studies Together these new empirical studies and critical theoretical analyses confirm the continuing central importance of class and place in shaping the opportunities transitions sub cultures and life styles of young people This book was based on a special issue of Journal of Youth Studies

From transmitted deprivation to social exclusion Welshman, John, 2007-09-13 John Welshman s new book fills a major gap in social policy the history of debates over transmitted deprivation and their relationship with current initiatives on social exclusion The book explores the content and background to Sir Keith Joseph s famous cycle of deprivation speech in 1972 examining his own personality and family background his concern with problem families and the wider policy context of the early 1970s Tracing the direction taken by the DHSS SSRC Research Programme on Transmitted Deprivation it seeks to understand why the Programme was set up and why it took the direction it did With this background the book explores New

Labour's approach to child poverty initiatives such as Sure Start the influence of research on inter generational continuities and its new stance on social exclusion The author argues that while earlier writers have acknowledged the intellectual debt that New Labour owes to Joseph and noted similarities between current policy approaches to child poverty and earlier debates the Government's most recent attempts to tackle social exclusion mean that these continuities are now more striking than ever before Making extensive use of archival sources private papers contemporary published documents and oral interviews with retired civil servants and social scientists Policy Poverty and Parenting is the only book length treatment of this important but neglected strand of the history of social policy It will be of interest to students and researchers working on contemporary history social policy political science public policy sociology and public health

Understanding Social Inequality Tim Butler, Paul Watt, 2007-01-19 This is a book that should be read by anyone interested in class inequality poverty and politics Actually probably more importantly it should be read by people who think that those things do not matter It provides a wonderful summation of the huge amount of work on these topics that now exists and it also offers its own distinctive perspectives on a set of issues that are despite the claims of some influential commentators still central to the sociological enterprise and indeed to political life Roger Burrows University of York A clear and compelling analysis of the dynamics of social and spatial inequality in an era of globalisation This is an invaluable resource for students and scholars in sociology human geography and the social sciences more generally Gary Bridge University of Bristol With the declining attention paid to social class in sociology how can we analyze continuing and pervasive socio economic inequality What is the impact of recent developments in sociology on how we should understand disadvantage Moving beyond the traditional dichotomies of social theory this book brings the study of social stratification and inequality into the 21st century Starting with the widely agreed fact that the world is becoming more unequal this book brings together the identity of displacement in sociology and the spaces of flow of geography to show how place has become an increasingly important focus for understanding new trends in social inequality

Market Place Susan Parham, 2013-02-21 This book is about designing for food It explores three fast transforming urban sites in London centred on the regenerating spaces of Borough Broadway and Exmouth Markets It suggests that food quarters have emerged in each place modelling new forms of interconnection between physical design and social processes in which food related renewal is at the heart Using case study research informed by design morphological and social science techniques the book explores how the interplay between compact city design and social practices focused on food strongly influences the making of everyday life in these places It demonstrates that the quarters have at once enriched the experience of food and eating and increased urban sustainability and conviviality in and around previously moribund food spaces while paradoxically contributing to gentrification effects The book frames this experience within more spatially dominant approaches to city design which seem to close off convivial food options and choices that would support a more satisfying and resilient urban life The book draws some conclusions about the complexities of designing and planning for food led renewal that might apply more broadly to other places in London and potentially to other cities in future
