On The Desert:

On the Desert Henry Martyn Field, 1902 Forty Days in the Desert, on the Track of the Israelites William Henry Bartlett, 1862 At the Desert's Green Edge Amadeo M. Rea, 1997-11 The Akimel O odham or Pima Indians of the northern Sonoran Desert continue to make their home along Arizona's Gila River despite the alarming degradation of their habitat that has occurred over the past century The oldest living Pimas can recall a lush riparian ecosystem and still recite more than two hundred names for plants in their environment but they are the last generation who grew up subsisting on cultivated native crops or wild foraged plants Ethnobiologist Amadeo M Rea has written the first complete ethnobotany of the Gila River Pima and has done so from the perspective of the Pimas themselves At the Desert's Green Edge weaves the Pima view of the plants found in their environment with memories of their own history and culture creating a monumental testament to their traditions and way of life Rea first discusses the Piman people environment and language then proceeds to share their botanical knowledge in entries for 240 plants that systematically cover information on economic botany folk taxonomy and linguistics The entries are organized according to Pima life form categories such as plants growing in water eaten greens and planted fruit trees All are anecdotal conveying the author's long personal involvement with the Pimas whether teaching in their schools or learning from them in conversations and interviews At the Desert's Green Edge is an archive of otherwise unavailable plant lore that will become a benchmark for botanists and anthropologists Enhanced by more than one hundred brush paintings of plants it is written to be equally useful to nonspecialists so that the Pimas themselves can turn to it as a resource regarding their former lifeways More than an encyclopedia of facts it is the Pimas own story a witness to a changing way of life in the Sonoran Desert Death of the Desert Christine Luckritz Marquis, 2022-03-22 In the late fourth century the world of Christianity was torn apart by debate over the teachings of the third century theologian Origen and his positions on the incorporeality of God In the year 400 Archbishop Theophilus of Alexandria convened a council declaring Origen's later followers as heretics Shortly thereafter Theophilus banished the so called Tall Brothers four Origenist monks who led monastic communities in the western Egyptian desert along with hundreds of their brethren In some accounts Theophilus leads a violent group of drunken youths and enslaved Ethiopians in sacking and desecrating the monastery in others he justly exercises his episcopal duties In some versions Theophilus violent actions effectively bring the Golden Age of desert monasticism to an end in others he has shown proper respect for the desert fathers whose life of asceticism is subsequently destroyed by bands of barbarian marauders For some the desert came to be inextricably connected to violence and trauma while for others it became a site of nostalgic recollection Which of these narratives subsequent generations believed depended in good part on the sources they were reading In Death of the Desert Christine Luckritz Marquis offers a fresh examination of this critical juncture in Christian history and brings into dialogue narrative strands that have largely been separated in the scholarly tradition She takes the violence perpetrated by Theophilus as a turning point for desert monasticism and considers how monks became involved in acts of violence and how that violence came back to haunt them More broadly her careful attention to the dynamic relations between memory practices the rhetorical constructions of place racialized discourse and language and deeds of violence speak to us in our own time Design with the Desert Richard Malloy, John Brock, Anthony Floyd, Margaret Livingston, Robert H.

Webb, 2013-01-16 The modern southwestern cities of Phoenix Tucson Las Vegas Albuquerque and El Paso occupy lands that once supported rich desert ecosystems Typical development activities often resulted in scraping these desert lands of an ancient living landscape to be replaced with one that is human made and dependent on a large consumption of energy and natural resources Design with the Desert Conservation and Sustainable Development explores the natural and built environment of the American Southwest and introduces development tools for shaping the future of the region in a more sustainable way Explore the Desert Landscape and Ecology This transdisciplinary collaboration draws on insights from leading authorities in their fields spanning science ecology planning landscape development architecture and urban design Organized into five parts the book begins by introducing the physical aspects of the desert realm the land geology water and climate The second part deals with the living and ecological aspects from plants and animals to ecosystems The third part on planning in the desert covers the ecological and social issues surrounding water natural resource planning and community development Bring the Desert into the City The fourth part looks at how to bring nature into the built environment through the use of native plants the creation of habitats for nature in urban settings and the design of buildings communities and projects that create life The final part of the book focuses on urban sustainability and how to design urban systems that provide a secure future for community development Topics include water security sustainable building practices and bold architecture and community designs Design Solutions That Work with the Local Environment This book will inspire discussion and contemplation for anyone interested in desert development from developers and environmentalists to planners community leaders and those who live in desert regions Throughout this volume the contributors present solutions to help promote ecological balance between nature and the built environment in the American Southwest and offer valuable insights for other ecologically fragile regions around the world Energy from the Desert Kosuke Kurokawa, 2014-04-08 The world's deserts are sufficiently large that in theory covering a fraction of their landmass with PV systems could generate many times the current primary global energy supply This Energy from the Desert volume examines and evaluates the potential of very large scale photovoltaic power generation VLS PV systems Following from the success of the first book on the subject the authors present practical case studies of both virtual and real projects based on selected regions including the Mediterranean the Middle East the Gobi Desert and Western Australia and their specific socio economic dynamics and argue that VLS PV systems in desert areas will be readily available in the near future As the essential companion to the previous International Energy Agency IEA volume it reiterates and develops key concepts introduced by the original study

Rats David Syrett, 2014-08-19 Made up of members of the Coldstream and Scots Guards British Yeomanry cavalry regiments New Zealanders South Africans and Indian Army men the Long Range Desert Group was perhaps the most effective of all the special forces established by the Allies during the Second World War It was able to go thousands of miles into enemy territory well armed and carrying its own supplies of petrol food and even water to last for weeks at a time something quite new in military history Using experience acquired in WWI and inter war exploration travels the LRDG thus developed the ability to appear almost anywhere in the desert to carry out almost every type of ground reconnaissance mission possible in desert warfare exploring and mapping the terrain transporting agents behind enemy lines or determining the strength and location of enemy forces with an extraordinary degree of accuracy and detail and thus able to verify or hide Ultra intelligence Equally important were their skills in the art of desert navigation demonstrated in the outflanking of the enemy during the Allied advance from El Alamein westward to Tunisia as led by the LRDG Once it had teamed up with the Special Air Service SAS made up of British Free French Commonwealth and Jewish Palestinian soldiers the LRDG perfected the art of irregular mechanized warfare conducted in the rear of the enemy's forces in the desert attacking enemy installations of all kinds mining roads raiding airfields destroying enemy aircraft on the ground and inflicting losses upon the enemy in inverse proportion to their own remarkably low rate of casualties Through meticulous research in original archival material this book thus tells the extraordinary story of how a relatively small number of dedicated men developed the methods and techniques for crossing by motor vehicle the depths of the then unmapped and seemingly impassable great deserts of Egypt and Libya the Western Desert during the British Army's North African Campaign of 1940-43 The Long Range Desert Group and the Special Air Service as a matter of course did extraordinary things the heroic was the commonplace Their tactics techniques and remarkable success in desert warfare continue to make them of great interest to the student of military affairs Likewise as it seeks to answer how the deep desert can best be used for military purposes this study is pertinent to today's military operations perhaps more so than at any time since World War II this study provides fresh insights into the nature of desert warfare past present and future and reveals the peculiarities of this warfare often lost to modern armies a virtual primer useful to commanders and soldiers alike At long last this book can find its rightful place in the classroom of military courses and colleges and in the hands of those interested in the intricacies complexities and problems of military operations in desert regions From the Foreword to the book by Colonel Retired David M Glantz Transactions of the Symposium on the Biological Resources of the Chihuahuan Desert Region, United States and Mexico, Sul Ross State University, Alpine, Texas, 17-18 October 1974 Roland H.
