Teaching Translation and Interpreting Łukasz Bogucki, Mikołaj Deckert, 2012-12-21 Translation is a phenomenon that affects us all on a daily basis the more so now that dissemination of information is greatly enhanced by modern technology However there are no strict regulations on who can become a translator and what qualifications are required The contributors to this volume strive to find out whether translators are taught self taught or trained what the teaching or training programmes are like and how they can be improved This is a companion volume to Teaching Translation and Interpreting Challenges and Practices edited by Łukasz Bogucki Cambridge Scholars Publishing 2010 It contains papers delivered at two international conferences devoted to teaching translation and interpreting organised in d Poland as well as invited contributions The authors are translation and interpreting scholars and teachers from leading Polish and Ukrainian universities Celebrity Translation in British Theatre Robert Stock,2020-07-23 This book explores the impact that high profile and well known translators have on audience reception of translated theatre Using Relevance Theory as a framework the book demonstrates how prior knowledge of a celebrity translator s contextual background can affect the spectator s cognitive state and influence their interpretation of the play Three canonical plays adapted for the British stage are analysed Mark Ravenhill s translation of Life of Galileo by Bertolt Brecht Roger McGough s translation of Tartuffe by Moli re and Simon Stephens translation of A Doll s House by Henrik Ibsen Drawing on interviews audience feedback reviews blogs and social media posts Stock examines the extent to which audiences infer the celebrity translator s own voice from their translations In doing so he adds new perspectives to the long standing debate on the visibility of the translator in both the process of translating and the reception of the translation Celebrity Translation in British Theatre offers an original approach to theatre translation that sheds light on the culture of celebrity and its capacity to attract new audiences to plays in translation Javier Marías's Debt to Translation Gareth J. Wood,2012-05-03 This is a book about translation and literary influence It takes as its subject Spain s most important contemporary novelist Javier Mar as 1951 who worked as a literary translator for a significant portion of his early career Since then he has maintained that translation had a crucial impact on the development of his writing style and his literary frame of reference It examines his claims to the influence of three writers whose works he translated Laurence Sterne Sir Thomas Browne and Vladimir Nabokov It does so by engaging in close reading of his translations examining how he meets the linguistic syntactic and cultural challenges they present His prolonged engagement with their prose is then set alongside his own novels and short stories the better to discern precisely how and in what ways his works have been shaped by their influence and through translation Hence this study begins by asking why Mar as should have turned to translation in the cultural landscape of Spain in the 1970s and how the ideological standpoints that animated his decision affect the way he translates His translation of Sterne s Life and Opinions of Tristram Shandy Gentleman is set alongside his pseudo autobiographical novel Negra espalda del tiempo Dark Back of Time while his translation of Sir Thomas Browne s Urn Burial is then analysed in tandem with that produced by Jorge Luis Borges and Adolfo Bioy Casares Subsequent chapters examine how Browne s prose has shaped Mar as s thinking on oblivion posterity and time The final chapters offer an analysis of the partial translation and palimpsest of Lolita he undertook in the early 1990s and of his most ambitious novel to date Tu rostro ma ana Your Face Tomorrow as a work in which characterization is underpinned by both literary allusion and the hybridization of works Mar as has translated

Translation on Display Min-Hsiu Liao,2025-05-13 This book foregrounds the role of translated texts in the study of the assemblages of semiotics resources in museums important cultural institutions which encompass such sites as exhibition spaces galleries heritage sites castles and memorials The book is organised in order of units of space moving from smaller spaces to larger ones with each chapter focused on an act enacted by the space performed by the semiotic systems at work in these spaces and their visitors as social agents looking feeling moving and living in them In examining how translated texts interact with objects spatial layout surroundings and visitors in the museum settings the volume offers a way forward for better understanding the theoretical foundations of museum translation and the analytical tools available for examining textual data gathered from these spaces This book will be of interest to scholars in translation studies tourism studies heritage studies and cultural studies

On Translation Di JIN, Eugene Albert NIDA, 2006-03-01 Following the theoretical framework Nida had developed over decades of work on translation and semiotics the two authors offer an easily comprehensible analysis of the complex problems involved in translation After a critical review of the historical development of translation theory in the light of modern information theory they elucidate the most fundamental principles of translation in accordance with the concept of dynamic equivalence The treatment is closely related to actual translation practice and the principles elucidated are applicable to all types of translation though most of the examples analyzed are taken from translations between Chinese and English This new and expanded edition has two main parts Part I is the complete text of the original work as published in the early 1980s Part II consists of six of Professor Jin's more recent essays which provide further insights into the principle of equivalent effect and its applications in literary translation Particular attention is paid to practical procedures and the extremely complex relationship between creative translation and real fidelity Published by City University of Hong Kong Press

On Translation John Sallis, 2002 Everyone complains about what is lost in translations This is the first account I have seen of the potentially positive impact of translation that it represents a genuinely new contribution Drew A Hyland In his original philosophical exploration of translation John Sallis shows that translating is much more than a matter of transposing one language into another At the very heart of language translation is operative throughout human thought and experience Sallis approaches translation from four directions from the dream of nontranslation or universal translatability through a scene of translation staged by Shakespeare in which the entire range of senses of translation is played out through the question of the force of words and from the representation of untranslatability in painting and music Drawing on Jakobson Gadamer Benjamin and Derrida Sallis shows how the classical concept of translation has undergone mutation and deconstruction

Human Issues in Translation Technology Dorothy Kenny, 2017-01-12 Translation technologies are moulded by and impact upon humans in all sorts of ways This state of the art volume looks at translation technologies from the point of view of the human users as trainee professional or volunteer translators or as end users of translations produced by machines Covering technologies from machine translation to online collaborative platforms and practices from traditional translation to crowdsourced translation and subtitling this volume takes a critical stance questioning both utopian and dystopian visions of translation technology In eight chapters the authors propose ideas on how technologies can better serve translators and end users of translations The first four chapters explore how translators in various contexts and with widely differing profiles use and feel about translation technologies as they currently stand while the second four chapters focus on the future on anticipating needs identifying emerging possibilities and defining interventions that can help to shape translation practice and research Drawing on a range of theories from cognitive to social and psychological and with empirical evidence of what the technologization of the workplace means to translators Human Issues in Translation Technology is key reading for all those involved in translation and technology translation theory and translation research methods
