Once A Marine A Black Marines Private War With A Murderous Band Of Bigots:

Once a Marine Fred Mathis, 2002-03-01 Gunnery Sergeant Lewis B Williams felt as if he were on top of the world This highly decorated Marine hero who happened to be an Afro American was married to the woman of his dreams Their young son was the apple of his daddy s eye Sergeant Williams was the most successful Drill Instructor in Marine Corps Boot Camp history Lew Williams was one happy man Then tragedy of unimaginable proportions changed his life First Sergeant Williams was a helpless witness to the fiery deaths of both his wife and his son Then to escape the pain and the guilt he turns to drink When the drinking made him no longer fit to command recruits Lew is transferred to Marine Corps headquarters in Washington D C for re assignment At exactly the same time a group of racial bigots opened a training camp for skinheads in rural Maryland To train the skinheads in the proper handling of Blacks the bigots kidnap Black drunks from the streets of Washington They turn the drunks loose inside their camp that has an electric fence to prevent their escape The drunks are then hunted down and they are killed The bigots make a HUGE mistake They kidnap Lew Williams They turn him loose as they had done with all the others This time however the intended victim escapes their attempt to track him down They can find no trace of him anywhere Still trapped inside the electric fence the Marine is forced into sobriety He then becomes the hunter as well as the hunted Unable to completely escape he makes the bigots and their forty plus armed skinheads wish that he had Complications in the form of more Black prisoners who he feels he must rescue make life more difficult and more dangerous for Sergeant Williams These complications grow as the bigots begin a systematic section by section search of their camp that they feel certain will eventually lead them to the unarmed but not for long Marine Fighting the three pronged problem of the bigots his own alcoholism and the fatigue that he has brought on himself the Marine must not allow himself the rest that his body and mind are demanding Ultimately he makes a mistake one that places him unarmed staring at the wrong end of a rifle The rifle is in the hands of one of the skinheads Lew Williams must convince this young man to let him escape or he will be killed The boy became a skinhead only because he believes that a gang of thrill seeking Black thugs killed his older brother He believes that to be true because it is what the local Chief of Police told him had happened You will not soon forget ONCE A MARINE New Society ,1969 The Advocate ,2005-01-18 The Advocate is a lesbian gay bisexual transgender LGBT monthly newsmagazine Established in 1967 it is the oldest continuing LGBT publication in the United States America, History and Life ,1983 Provides historical coverage of the United States and Canada from prehistory to the present Includes information abstracted from over 2 000 journals published worldwide Variety's Complete Home Video Directory ,1989 The Film Encyclopedia Ephraim Katz,1994 Gay and Lesbian Cinema p 513 514 TV Guide ,2007 The Illustrated London News , Chicago Tribune Index ,1993 The Washington Post Index ,1996 Tragediia sovetskoï derevni ,1999 Uncle Sam Must be Losing the War Bill Downey,1982 Over the Side Matt Zeigler,2015-11-08 Over The Side Black Marines of WWII is a story of men who not only overcame the challenge of the Marine Corps and war but perils of racism as well Their saga began at Montford Point in North Carolina where combat units were forged that served in the Marines gallant amphibious assault campaigns of World War II s Pacific Theater From bloody beaches and treacherous jungles of battlegrounds at Saipan Tinian Guam Peleliu Iwo Jima and Okinawa they earned the valor of United States Marines The Right to Fight Bernard C. Nalty,2013-12 When the United States began arming against aggression by the Axis powers Nazi Germany Imperial Japan and Fascist Italy the Marine Corps had a simple and inflexible policy governing African Americans it had not accepted them since its reestablishment in 1798 and did not want them now In April 1941 during a meeting of the General Board of the Navy a body roughly comparable to the War Department General Staff the Commandant of the Marine Corps Major General Thomas Holcomb declared that blacks had no place in the organization he headed If it were a question of having a Marine Corps of 5 000 whites or 250 000 Negroes he said I would rather have the whites Whereas General Holcomb and the Marine Corps refused to accept African Americans the Navy admitted blacks in small numbers but only to serve as messmen or stewards The forces of change were gathering momentum however President Franklin D Roosevelt after meeting in September 1940 with a panel of black leaders offered African Americans better treatment and greater opportunity within the segregated armed forces in return for their support of his rearmament program and his attempt to gain an unprecedented third term in the November Presidential election Roosevelt won that election with the help of those blacks mainly in the cities of the North who could still exercise the right to vote and he did so without antagonizing the Southern segregationists in the Senate and House of Representatives whose support he needed for his anti Nazi foreign policy By the spring of 1941 many black leaders felt that the time had come for the Roosevelt administration to make good its pledge to African Americans repaying them for their help This book offers a concise narrative that recounts the history of African American Marines in World War II We Marines Edward (Ned) Black,2019-07-25 The Vietnam era was a time of turmoil and change in the United States one of anger and anguish for some especially among young men facing a call up for military service Writings about this time have focused mostly on the protest viewpoint But not everyone who went to Vietnam did so against their will Many were proud to fight for their country especially the early war cadre of troops mostly in the Marine Corps who were all volunteers It was what they had joined up and trained for and they were determined to do their duty wherever it took them The name of the place did not matter what mattered was that the Corps told them to go WE MARINES is the authors experience in the military from age seventeen to twenty three A young man who wanted to be a Marine and served in peace time the Cuban Crisis and Vietnam He didn t mind going into combat with his buddies and when his overseas rotation was up volunteered a second time to stay with them WE MARINES deals with our involvement in Vietnam in 1965 66 offering a personal view of the war and its aftermath too often ignored until now It is written especially for his family and those who were there Bitter Mrs. Bill James Dean Perkins,2003-08 If what I saw today Negroes in U S Marine uniforms is an indication of how the war is going America is in deep trouble These words spoken by a member of an exclusive upper Midwestern country club and heard by a black employee essentially summed up the sentiments of many Americans in 1942 For it was the first time in military history that the Marine Corps had decided to open its doors to Negroes To this day some fifty years later too few people are aware of the contribution and sacrifice of black Marines to the World War II effort This was the motivating force which occasioned the writing of this treatise principally to refute the notion that America was in deep trouble The reader will find between these pages documentation of the highest order sources of information from various perspectives all converging on a common theme
