Anders, Barbara J. Guzzetti, 2020-07-24 Like its predecessor Literacy Instruction in the Content Areas Second Edition is written for undergraduate graduate and in service teachers who want to integrate literacy processes into their content area instruction In addition to extensive updating of earlier material this new edition extends its coverage to include new chapters on adolescents out of school literacy experiences and their in school preferences digital resources for content learning and considerations for the reading specialist In doing so however the authors have tried to maintain the brevity stylistic clarity and classroom focus of the earlier volume Key features of this important new book include Teaching Flexibility Although written with the needs of pre service teachers in mind theory and research are treated in sufficient depth to make the book suitable for graduate courses and for teacher study groups It is also appropriate for secondary reading specialists or literacy coaches responsible for establishing or maintaining a school wide literacy program Changes in New Edition All chapters have been reorganized and most of the text rewritten In addition new chapters not usually included in content area reading texts were added These cover 1 adolescents out of school literacy experiences and in school preferences 2 digital resources for content learning and 3 considerations for the reading specialist Socio Cultural Perspective Like other volumes in the Literacy Teaching Series the perspective of this one is socio cultural and constructivist It recognizes that classroom teaching and learning are closely intertwined with surrounding school and community cultures as well as the culture and language of the subject being studied Likewise literacy is not simply a matter of reading and writing but involves using multiple literacies to negotiate and construct meaning Practical Orientation Although supporting theory and research are included in all chapters instructional strategies with illustrative examples from practicing teachers are included in most chapters Each chapter concludes with Application Activities and From Our Professional Library references Reading in Secondary Content Areas Zhihui Fang, Mary Schleppegrell, 2008 What does it mean to teach reading in the context of the middle and high school classroom Don't students already know how to read by the time they get to secondary school And how can a busy teacher take time away from the packed curriculum of science history mathematics or language arts to teach reading This book presents a linguistic approach to teaching reading in different subjects an approach that focuses on language itself Central to this approach is a view that knowledge is constructed in and through language and that language changes with changes in knowledge As students move from elementary to secondary schools they encounter specialized knowledge and engage in new contexts of learning in all subjects This means that the language of secondary school learning is quite different from the language of the elementary years While in the elementary years the subject matter of reading materials is often close to students everyday life experiences the curriculum of secondary school deals with knowledge that is removed from students personal lives and everyday contexts The language that constructs this more specialized knowledge thus tends to be more abstract technical information laden and hierarchically organized than the more familiar and friendly language that students typically encounter during the elementary years Students need to develop specialized literacies literacy relevant to each content area as well as a critical literacy they can use across subject areas to engage with reflect on and assess specialized and advanced knowledge This functional language analysis approach is shown using actual secondary social studies science and math textbooks and using a literary text
