Individual, Home, Textual, and Classroom Perspectives Allan Wigfield,John T. Guthrie,2013-12-16 Based on research from the National Reading Research Center NRRRC at the Universities of Georgia and Maryland this issue presents the contributors synthesized work on reading motivation and engagement Articles are devoted to the following topics the general motivation constructs related to reading home influences on reading motivation readers responses to different types of text influences of classroom contexts and types of assessment on children's motivation Reading Engagement for Tweens and Teens Margaret K. Merga,2018-12-01 Identifies evidence backed and easy to implement strategies for encouraging young people to read and helps you to position your library as an indispensable resource for supporting reading While most reading research focuses on young children this book looks at how to support reading beyond the early years and into adulthood Reporting on strong peer reviewed research supported by sound theoretical and methodological approaches it emphasizes the practical implications of these findings sharing what this means for you in terms of how you can be a powerful positive reading model and influence in young people's lives Enriched with the voices of today's young people the book includes quotes that allow readers to decide how to support reading engagement for tweens and teens based on what would make them read more as expressed in their own words Engaging and readable it will be of interest to school and public librarians and can be shared with teachers parents and other literacy instructors and advocates Journal of Direct Instruction

,2004 Home and the World Yuming He,2020-10-26 China's sixteenth and seventeenth centuries saw an unprecedented explosion in the production and circulation of woodblock printed books What can surviving traces of that era's print culture reveal about the makers and consumers of these books Home and the World addresses this question by carefully examining a wide range of late Ming books considering them not merely as texts but as material objects and economic commodities designed produced and marketed to stand out in the distinctive book marketplace of the time and promising high enjoyment and usefulness to readers Although many of the mass market commercial imprints studied here might have struck scholars from the eighteenth century on as too trivial lowbrow or slipshod to merit serious study they prove to be an invaluable resource providing insight into their readers orientations toward the increasingly complex global stage of early modernity and toward traditional Chinese conceptions of textual political and moral authority On a more intimate scale they tell us about readers' ideals of a fashionable and pleasurable private life Through studying these works we come closer to recapturing the trend-conscious sophisticated and often subversive ways readers at this important moment in China's history imagined their world and their place within it 2015 Joseph Levenson Book Prize Pre 1900 Category China and Inner Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies
