Sb14e People And Gorillas:

How Gorilla Closely Related to Human? Nsesheye Nkota, 2018-07-25 A gorilla is a powerfully built great ape aggressive looking man with a large head and short neck found in the forests of central Africa They re peaceful family oriented plant eating animals Many people like to compare gorillas with humans Scientists have shown that gorillas live in complex social groups display individual personalities make and use tools and show emotions like grief and compassion We shouldn t be surprised though Gorillas are one of our closest living relatives and they share at least 95% of their DNA with humans British anthropologist Robin Dunbar criticized this basic philosophy He argued this clearly in a 2008 article titled Why Humans Aren t Just Great Apes Within this article Dunbar claims that humans are different from great apes in one critical respect our imagination Dunbar 2008 Prof Jonathan Marks is in line with Dunbar in his post at website PopAnth called Are we apes No we are humans Like all great apes except humans gorillas require rain forests to make their living and the forest depends upon them too The gorilla s fibrous scat acts as rich fertilizer for the forest and seedlings sprout from it rapidly making these animals important forest re generators In this book you are going to see how Gorilla is closely related to human and now you will start to understand the Wisdom of the Jungle

Gorilla Doctors Pamela S. Turner, 2008-08-06 The author of The Frog Scientist showcases the work of the Mountain Gorilla Veterinary Project in an outstanding science nature title Kirkus Reviews starred review Mountain gorillas are playful curious and protective of their families They are also one of the most endangered species in the world For years mountain gorillas have faced the threat of death by poachers Funds raised by gorilla tourism bringing people into the forest to see gorillas have helped protect them This tourism is vital but contact between gorillas and people brought a new threat to the gorillas human disease The Mountain Gorilla Veterinary Project is a group of scientists working to save the mountain gorilla population in Rwanda and Uganda The gorilla doctors study the effects of human exposure provide emergency care and act as foster parents to an orphaned gorilla Excellent photographs prominently feature the scientists at work predominantly women and people of color in scientific roles as well as the photogenic gorillas Horn Book starred review The author who has a degree in public health is especially successful in explaining how improving community public health benefits both gorillas and humans Spectacular and appealing photos of gorillas scientists and the Rwanda Preserve add even more appeal Kirkus Reviews starred review The readable text records their efforts to treat the great apes in the field as they encounter poachers meet with loss of habitat and face their newest threat human diseases that can cross species lines The whole is accompanied by striking full color photographs and includes a list of other resources a postscript and an index School Library Journal
