Education, Philosophy and the Ethical Environment Graham Haydon, 2006-09-27 How much can we reasonably expect from education This book written by a philosopher of education casts new light on this question by seeing values education not as a separate activity within schools but as an aspect of education that both reflects the surrounding climate of values and can help to change it Graham Haydon argues that all of us whether as teachers parents students or citizens share in a responsibility for the quality of that ethical environment He argues that we must ensure that what happens in schools will enable young people to appreciate the diversity of our ethical environment help them find their way through its complexities contribute to developing a climate of values that is desirable for all This book shows that values education is too demanding to be left to parents and too important to be entrusted to government initiatives For teachers engaged in values education this book brings a fresh perspective to what they are doing within a realistic view of their responsibilities For students of education it shows that practical issues can be illuminated by insights from philosophy

Kirby,Nian Cai Liu,Simon Marginson,2020-10-08 The global order based on international governance and multilateral trade mechanisms in the aftermath of the Second World War is changing rapidly and creating waves of uncertainty This is especially true in higher education a field increasingly built on international cooperation and the free movement of students academics knowledge and ideas Meanwhile China has announced its plans for a New Silk Road NSR and is developing its higher education and research systems at speed In this book an international and interdisciplinary group of scholars from Europe China the USA Russia and Australia investigate how academic mobility and cooperation is taking shape along the New Silk Road and what difference it will make if any in the global higher education landscape Opening chapters present the global context for the NSR the development of Chinese universities along international models and the history and outcomes of EU China cooperation The flows and patterns in academic cooperation along the NSR as they shape and have been shaped by China's universities are then explored in more detail. The conditions for Sino foreign cooperation are discussed next with an analysis of regulatory frameworks for cooperation, recognition, data and privacy. Comparative work follows on the cultural traditions and academic values, similarities and differences between Sinic and Anglo American political and educational cultures and their implications for the governance and mission of higher education, the role of critical scholarship and the state and standing of the humanities in China. The book concludes with a focus on the Idea of a University, the values underpinning its mission, shape and purpose, reflecting on the implications of China's rapid higher education development for the geopolitics of higher education itself. Appalachia, 1972
