The Executive Decisionmaking Process Ralph Sanders, 1999-09-30 Decisionmaking literature which has emphasized the act of solving problems has long neglected the need to identify problems as precisely as possible This book examines the nature of problems and decisionmaking and their impact on people who direct an organization It further focuses on how executives respond to take action at the upper levels of their organizations The book stresses problem identification which executives frequently ignore because of their preoccupation with problem solving It looks at the need to avoid viewing solutions as remedies achieved at predetermined milestones It examines options other than solutions such as accommodation and coping and it looks at the executive environment associated with outcomes along a spectrum ranging from perfection to progress to failure The author argues that executives should abandon the attempt to predetermine objectives over time and adopt a Problem Exchange Ratio PER concept The executive then compares the status of problems over time creating a ratio The PER approach considers the problems that solutions themselves trigger It then allows executives to see where they stand and suggests ways of ameliorating unwanted conditions The author provides illustrative cases and episodes from both the public and private sectors Combining theory and practical aspects of executive decisionmaking this book gives the reader a fuller understanding of the link between decisions and problems

Landscape Planning with Ecosystem Services Christina von Haaren, Andrew A. Lovett, Christian Albert, 2019-06-25 Human well being depends in many ways on maintaining the stock of natural resources which deliver the services from which human s benefit However these resources and flows of services are increasingly threatened by unsustainable and competing land uses Particular threats exist to those public goods whose values are not well represented in markets or whose deterioration will only affect future generations As market forces alone are not sufficient effective means for local and regional planning are needed in order to safeguard scarce natural resources coordinate land uses and create sustainable landscape structures This book argues that a solution to such challenges in Europe can be found by merging the landscape planning tradition with ecosystem services concepts Landscape planning has strengths in recognition of public benefits and implementation mechanisms while the ecosystem services approach makes the connection between the status of natural assets and human well being more explicit It can also provide an economic perspective focused on individual preferences and benefits which helps validate the acceptability of environmental planning goals Thus linking landscape planning and ecosystem services provides a two way benefit creating a usable science to meet the needs of local and regional decision making The book is structured around the Driving forces Pressures States Impacts Responses framework providing an introduction to relevant concepts methodologies and techniques It presents a new ecosystem services informed approach to landscape planning that constitutes both a framework and toolbox for students and practitioners to address the environmental and landscape challenges of 21st century Europe Corporate Strategy (Remastered) II Paul
