Scent Of The Gods A Novel:

The Underground Stream Velda Johnston, 1991      The Scent of the Gods Fiona Cheong, 2010-10-01 The Scent of the Gods tells the enchanting haunting story of a young girl's coming of age in Singapore during the tumultuous years of its formation as a nation. Eleven-year-old Su Yen bears witness to the secretive lives of grown-ups in her diasporic Chinese family and to the veiled threats in Southeast Asia during the Cold War years. From a child's limited perspective, the novel depicts the emerging awareness of sexuality in both its beauty and its consequences, especially for women. In the context of postcolonial politics, Fiona Cheong skillfully parallels the uncertainties of adolescence with the growing paranoia of a population kept on alert to communist infiltration. In luminous prose, the novel raises timely questions about safety, protection, and democracy and what one has to give up to achieve them. Ideal for students and scholars of Asian American and transnational literature, postcolonial history, women's studies, and many other interconnected disciplines, this special edition of The Scent of the Gods includes a contextualizing introduction, a chronology of historical events covered in the novel, and explanatory notes.

Betrayal and Other Acts of Subversion Leslie Bow, 2011-10-16 Asian American women have long dealt with charges of betrayal within and beyond their communities. Images of their disloyalty pervade American culture, from the daughter who is branded a traitor to family for adopting American ways to the war bride who immigrates in defiance of her countrymen to a figure such as Yoko Ono, accused of breaking up the Beatles with her seduction of John Lennon. Leslie Bow here explores how representations of females transgressing the social order play out in literature by Asian American women. Questions of ethnic belonging, sexuality, identification, and political allegiance are among the issues raised by such writers as Jeanne Wakatsuki Houston, Bharati Mukherjee, Jade Snow Wong, Amy Tan, Sky Lee, Le Ly Hayslip, Wendy Law Yone, Fiona Cheong, and Nellie Wong. Beginning with the notion that feminist and Asian American identity are mutually exclusive Bow analyzes how women serve as boundary markers between ethnic or national collectives in order to reveal the male based nature of social cohesion In exploring the relationship between femininity and citizenship liberal feminism and American racial discourse and women s domestic abuse and human rights the author suggests that Asian American women not only mediate sexuality s construction as a determiner of loyalty but also manipulate that construction as a tool of political persuasion in their writing The language of betrayal she argues offers a potent rhetorical means of signaling how belonging is policed by individuals and by the state Bow s bold analysis exposes the stakes behind maintaining ethnic feminist and national alliances particularly for women who claim multiple loyalties gender Rewriting God asks whether women have been writing about the divine and whether their insights are different from those contained in malestream accounts of Australian Christianity and spirituality An analysis of the writings of popular theologians and religious commentators over the last twenty years suggests that the most popular form of spirituality among Australian theologians is Desert Spirituality An analysis of women s autobiographical writings however suggests that the desert is irrelevant to many women s spiritual experiences This book through a close investigation of the fictions of Thea Astley Elizabeth Jolley and Barbara Hanrahan attempts to posit alternative forms of women s spirituality and to signal ways in which this spirituality is already being expressed From the evidence gathered here it becomes obvious that traditional expressions of Australian Christianity and spirituality are gender specific and that they have functioned to deny women s religious experiences and to silence their claims to equality in the sight and service of the divine It becomes obvious too that women have been developing their own forms of religious expression and that these may be expected to supplant gradually withering images of Desert Spirituality Whether this new imagery will strengthen Australian Christianity or whether it merely marks a decline in the authority of Christianity remains a moot point     The New York Times Book Review ,1991-10
