Schneider,2020-02-07 The forms and genres of academic communication have changed considerably over the past decades from standardised ways of producing texts on for paper to a less standardised way of communication in Web 2.0. Published papers are now available to a greater number of readers interaction among colleagues can take place in real time via written audio or visual formats and it has become much more comfortable for students as well as for those outside the scientific community to access academic information and to contact its authors. It seems however that many aspects of academic communication have not yet changed and its participants either in the old or in the new generation are ill equipped to work within the multimedia context. This volume therefore takes a look at academic communication in the multimedia environment in order to throw light on how these processes are linked to new multimedia affordances while at the same time encapsulating old genre conventions and participant interaction with the medium.

Pathways Through Writing Blocks in the Academic Environment Kate Evans, 2013-04-19 Writing blocks are likely to strike any writer even experienced ones at sometime or another. Academia has its own challenges which can provoke blocks particular to that environment. Drawing on her knowledge as writer, psychotherapeutic counsellor and university tutor, Kate Evans has put together a book which addresses many of the differing aspects of writing blocks including looking at their emotional and psychological foundations. With discussion and practical exercises, this volume suggests that an infusion of creative techniques can offer pathways through writing blocks in the academic environment. The case studies provide an in depth consideration of varying experiences of writing blocks. The book is aimed at students with essays, projects or reports to write or theses to tackle as well as academics who are working on articles and books. It will also offer insights for supervisors who wish to support those who are writing and guidance for people running writing groups within academia. Over all, the book encourages a creative collaborative approach which aims to equip academics for writing within the context of the twenty first century. This book offers something for every academic writer whether budding or experienced. Students struggling with essays and dissertations will find many practical exercises along with invaluable advice. More practised writers will encounter fresh insights. I am confident that you the reader will enjoy this book which is itself a model of good writing. Dr Linda Finlay, the Open University, UK.

Scholarly Communication in Library and Information Services Bhaskar Mukherjee, 2010-07-27 This book has been written with a view to understand the validity of the perceptions of Open Access (OA) e journals in the Library and Information Science (LIS) field. Using relevant OA journals, this book presents and evaluates journals qualitatively and quantitatively. Over the last three hundred years, scholarly journals have been the prime mode of transport in communicating the scholarly research process. However, in the last few decades, a changing scenario has been witnessed in their form and format. OA is an innovative idea that attracts a fair amount of support and opposition around the world because it bridges the gap between digitally divided scholars by solving the pricing and permission crises that have imbalanced the scholarly communication process. Some scholars are of the opinion that OA has led to a chaotic environment where anyone can publish anything. Scholarly Communication in Library and Information Services records in detail the impact by accessing the journals web site qualitatively and quantitatively in measuring the important elements such as articles authors countries subjects and cited references Finally the book calculates the impact factor using synchronous and asynchronous approaches First ever study to extensively evaluate LIS Journals Web site qualitatively by using a newly developed set of criteria LIS OA journals are also evaluated quantitatively Counts citations of LIS OA articles in terms of formal citations by using Google Scholar
