Note book, of Sir John Northcote, Sometime M. P., for Ashburton, and Afterwards for the County of Devon, Containing Memoranda of Proceedings in the House of Commons During the First Session of the Long Parliament, 1640 Alexander Henry Abercromby Hamilton,2025-07-27 Reprint of the original first published in 1877 The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage Old Age in English History Pat Thane,2000-05-11 At the end of the twentieth century more people are living into their seventies eighties nineties and beyond a process expected to continue well into the next millennium The twentieth century has achieved what people in other centuries only dreamed of many can now expect to survive to old age in reasonably good health and can remain active and independent to the end in contrast to the high death rate ill health and destitution which affected all ages in the past Yet this change is generally greeted not with triumph but with alarm It is assumed that the longer people live the longer they are ill and dependent thus burdening a shrinking younger generation with the cost of pensions and health care It is also widely believed that the past saw few survivors into old age and these could be supported by their families without involving the taxpayer In this first survey of old age throughout English history these assumptions are challenged Vivid pictures are given of the ways in which very large numbers of older people lived often vigorous and independent lives over many centuries The book argues that old people have always been highly visible in English communities and concludes that as people live longer due to the benefits of the rise in living standards far from being burdens they can be valuable contributors to their family and friends

Fact and Fiction in Contemporary Narratives Jan Alber,Alice Bell,2021-05-11 This book explores the complex interrelationship between fact and fiction in narratives of the twenty first century Current cultural theory observes a cultural shift away from postmodernism to new forms of expression Rather than a radical break from the postmodern however postmodernist techniques are repurposed to express a new sincerity a purposeful self reflexivity a contemporary sense of togetherness and an associated commitment to reality In what the editors consider to be one manifestation of this general tendency this book explores the ways in which contemporary texts across different media play with the boundary between fact and fiction This includes the examination of novels autobiography autofiction film television mockumentary digital fiction advertising campaigns and media hoaxes The chapters engage with theories of what comes after postmodernism and analyse the narratological stylistic and or semiotic devices on which such texts rely The chapters in this book were originally published
