LOVE OF A CHILD SORROW OF A WOMAN Anne Musoke, 2014 In this particular book Anne's writing leans largely towards explorative ideas and experiences of love Anne is someone who believes deeply in love and often says to friends family and colleagues that when a person finds love and is able to give and share it freely as well as receive it wholly while protecting it and treating it with honour and respect it is then that one has truly found their purpose in life This is because love is the driving force behind all we do as humanity Anne was fortunate enough to find a true love in her life at a young age and unfortunately that true love also at some point turned into true pain through various incidents within the relationship Anne was left alone to wonder about the high price that one may pay for love Over a period of years Anne began to write and keep her feelings and musings and these all culminate into the collection of poetry in Love of a child Sorrow of a woman After years of working in the mainstream employment field Anne has now taken residence in a quiet peaceful town where she spends her time reading and writing and sharing her life with others in the form of her poetry in the hope that it will bring as much healing joy laughter and introspection to the reader as it did the writer

Twenty years after the publication of the bestselling All's Fair, James Carville and Mary Matalin look at how they and America have changed in the last two decades. James Carville and Mary Matalin have long held the mantle of the nation's most ideologically mismatched and intensely opinionated political couple. In this follow up to All's Fair, Carville and Matalin pick up the story they began in that groundbreaking bestseller and talk family, faith, love and politics in their two winning voices. If nothing else, this new collaboration proves that after twenty years of marriage, they can still manage to agree on a few things. A fascinating look at the last two decades in American politics and an intimate, quick witted primer on grown up relationships and values. Love War provides unprecedented insight into one of our nation's most intriguing and powerful couples. With their natural charm and sharp intelligence, Carville and Matalin have written undoubtedly the most spirited memoir of the year. [Wake Up . . .
