Implacable Foes Waldo Heinrichs, Marc Gallicchio, 2017-05-01 On May 8 1945 Victory in Europe Day shortened to V E Day brought with it the demise of Nazi Germany But for the Allies the war was only half won Exhausted but exuberant American soldiers ready to return home were sent to join the fighting in the Pacific which by the spring and summer of 1945 had turned into a gruelling campaign of bloody attrition against an enemy determined to fight to the last man Germany had surrendered unconditionally The Japanese would clearly make the conditions of victory extraordinarily high In the United States Americans clamored for their troops to come home and for a return to a peacetime economy Politics intruded upon military policy while a new and untested president struggled to strategize among a military command that was often mired in rivalry The task of defeating the Japanese seemed nearly unsurmountable even while plans to invade the home islands were being drawn Army Chief of Staff General George C Marshall warned of the toll that the agony of enduring battle would likely take General Douglas MacArthur clashed with Marshall and Admiral Nimitz over the most effective way to defeat the increasingly resilient Japanese combatants In the midst of this division the Army began a program of partial demobilization of troops in Europe which depleted units at a time when they most needed experienced soldiers In this context of military emergency the fearsome projections of the human cost of invading the Japanese homeland and weakening social and political will victory was salvaged by means of a horrific new weapon As one Army staff officer admitted The capitulation of Hirohito saved our necks In Implacable Foes award winning historians Waldo Heinrichs a veteran of both theatres of war in World War II and Marc Gallicchio bring to life the final year of World War Two in the Pacific right up to the dropping of the atomic bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki evoking not only Japanese policies of desperate defense but the sometimes rancorous debates on the home front They deliver a gripping and provocative narrative that challenges the decision making of U S leaders and delineates the consequences of prioritizing the European front The result is a masterly work of military history that evaluates the nearly insurmountable trials associated with waging global war and the sacrifices necessary to succeed

Arsenal of World War II Paul A. C. Koistinen, 2004 Prolific munitions production keyed America's triumph in World War II but so did the complex economic controls needed to sustain that production Artillery tanks planes ships trucks and weaponry of every kind were constantly demanded by the military and readily supplied by American business While that relationship was remarkably successful in helping the U S win the war it also raised troubling issues about wartime economies that have never been fully resolved Paul Koistinen's fourth installment of a monumental five volume series on the political economy of American warfare focuses on the mobilization of national resources for a truly global war Koistinen comprehensively analyzes all relevant aspects of the World War II economy from 1940 through 1945 describing the nation's struggle to establish effective control over industrial supply and military demand and revealing the growing partnership between the corporate community and the armed services Koistinen traces the evolution of federal agencies mobilizing for war including the National Defense Advisory Commission the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board and then focuses on the work of the War Production Board from 1942-1945 As the war progressed the WPB and related agencies oversaw the military's supply and procurement systems stabilized the economy while financing the war closely monitored labor relations and controlled the shipping and rationing of fuel and food In chronicling American mobilization Koistinen reveals how representatives of industry and the armed services expanded upon their growing prewar ties to shape policies for harnessing the economy and how federal agencies were subsequently riven with dissension as New Deal reformers and anti New Deal corporate elements battled for control over mobilization itself As the armed services emerged as the principal customers of a command economy the military industrial nexus consolidated its power and ultimately succeeded in bending the reformers to its will The product of exhaustive archival research Arsenal of World War II shows that mobilization meant more than simply harnessing the economy for war it also involved struggles for power and position among a great many interest groups and ideologies Nearly two decades in the making it provides an ambitious and enormously insightful overview of the emergence of the military industrial economy one that still resonates today as America continues to wage wars around the globe

History of Nebraska, Fourth Edition James C. Olson, Ronald C. Naugle, John J. Montag, 2014-12-31 History of Nebraska was originally created to mark the territorial centennial of Nebraska and then revised to coincide with the statehood centennial This one volume history quickly became the standard text for the college student and reference for the general reader unmatched for generations as the only comprehensive history of the state This fourth edition revised and updated preserves the spirit and intelligence of the original Incorporating the results of years of scholarship and research this edition gives fuller attention to such topics as the Native American experience in Nebraska and the accomplishments and circumstances of the state s women and minorities It also provides a historical analysis of the state s dramatic changes in the past two decades
