The Feminization of Quest-Romance Dana A. Heller, 2014-03-19 What happens when a woman dares to imagine herself a hero Questing she sets out for unknown regions Lighting a torch she elicits from the darkness stories never told or heard before The woman hero sails against the tides of great legends that recount the adventures of heroic men legends deemed universal timeless and essential to our understanding of the natural order that holds us and completes us in its spiral Yet these myths and rituals do not fulfill her need for an empowering self image nor do they grant her the mobility she requires to imagine enact and represent her quest for authentic self knowledge The Feminization of Quest Romance proposes that a female quest is a revolutionary step in both literary and cultural terms Indeed despite the difficulty that women writers face in challenging myths rituals psychological theories and literary conventions deemed universal by a culture that exalts masculine ideals and universalizes male experience a number of revolutionary texts have come into existence in the second half of the twentieth century by such American women writers as Jean Stafford Mary McCarthy Anne Moody Marilynne Robinson and Mona Simpson all of them working to redefine the literary portrayal of American women's quests They work in part by presenting questing female characters who refuse to accept the roles accorded them by restrictive social norms even if it means sacrificing themselves in the name of rebellion In later texts female heroes survive their lighting out experiences to explore diverse alternatives to the limiting roles that have circumscribed female development This study of The Mountain Lion Memories of a Catholic Girlhood Coming of Age in Mississippi Housekeeping and Anywhere but Here identifies transformations of the quest romance that support a viable theory of female development and offer literary patterns that challenge the male monopoly on transformative knowledge and heroic action Unended Quest. Shameful Autobiographies Rosamund Dalziell, 2018-07-04 Writing autobiography is a risky business What is shameful can be inadvertently rather than deliberately revealed Yet reading autobiography can also be risky as it may lead to the confrontation of shame in ourselves Perhaps it is this element of risk together with the magnetism of another person's confession of shameful experience that make us such avid readers of autobiography Rosamund Dalziell proposes that shame is the driving force in many Australian autobiographies Indeed she suggests that the representation of shame is fundamental to the autobiographical process Shame seeks concealment and this she argues explains both why this fascinating link has not before been explored and why when it is pointed out we immediately know it to be authentic Shameful Autobiographies looks at pervasive patterns of shame in the autobiographies of such leading Australian writers as Germaine Greer Sally Morgan Bernard Smith Kathleen Fitzpatrick Morris Lurie Ruby Langford Ginibi and Robert Dessaix In so doing it establishes the centrality of shame to problems of Australian identity and to current political debate for instance it is shame that fuels angry repudiations of the so called black armband view of history The calm clarity of Rosamund Dalziell's writing strengthens her powerful insights and arguments the most potent of which is that autobiographical confrontation with shame can heal deep wounds both for writers and for readers This mature and innovative book will enrich the experience of all readers of autobiography
