Pornography in a Free Society Gordon Hawkins, Franklin E. Zimring, 1988 Pornography in a Free Society deals with what has been called the civil war over smut It addresses an issue about which citizens of Western nations are sharply divided Gordon Hawkins and Franklin Zimring attempt to look at the problem of pornography in a wider perspective than that of partisan political debate To that end they compare two American reports on pornography commissioned by Presidents Johnson and Reagan the first published in 1970 and the latter in 1986 with the report of the British Committee on Obscenity and Film Censorship which appeared during the years between the American reports They discuss the radical feminist challenge to pornography and the question of pornography and children Going on to consider likely future developments the authors argue that the furore over pornography and the appointment of commissions are part of a ceremony of adjustment to widespread availability of sexually explicit material and they predict less social concern about pornography as time passes

Television George Comstock, Erica Scharrer, 1999-04-15 Television What's On Who's Watching and What It Means presents a comprehensive examination of the role of television in one's life The emphasis is on data collected over the past two decades pointing to an increasing and in some instances a surprising influence of the medium Television is not only watched but its messages are attended to and well understood There is no shame in spending hours in front of the set in fact people over estimate the time they spend viewing Television advertising no longer persuades it sells by creating a burst of emotional liking for the commercial The emphases of television news determine not only what voters think about but also the presidential candidate they expect to support on election day Children and teenagers who watch a great deal of television perform poorly on standardized achievement tests and among the reasons are the usurpation of time spent learning to read and the discouragement of book reading Television violence frightens some children and excites others but its foremost effect is to increase aggressive behavior that sometimes spills over into seriously harmful antisocial behavior Incorporates social psychology political science sociology child development and the growing field of communications Presents tables and graphs clarifying theories and linking sets of data Paints concise portraits of the role of television in entertainment politics and child rearing Contains background for dozens of lectures and articles Contains a comprehensive bibliography of more than 1000 citations many recent

The Screening of America Tom O'Brien, 2016-10-06 This is an original investigation of how movies have reflected and helped to shape the values of a generation From All the President's Men to Wall Street US films of the 1970s and 80s were a kaleidoscope of shifting values and contrasting moral viewpoints Knowing that movies mirror the way we think we are or would like to be O'Brien focuses on the key values or their absence found in films from this period in order to see more clearly what Americans really cherished in life and how these values have evolved or changed Comprehensive and thought provoking this book addresses how and why movies glamorized and portrayed certain professions the changing role of women the targeting of religion for satire the addressing of environmental issues and film's representation of and engagement with history

Classify and Label Matt L. Drabek, 2014-10-15 Classify and Label The Unintended Marginalization of Social Groups is a philosophical treatment of classification in the social sciences and everyday life focusing on moral social and political implications The use of labels is essential to how people navigate and understand the world Classifications and labels also have a dark side as they may unintentionally misrepresent groups and individuals These misrepresentations disrupt how people think about themselves and how they treat others sometimes leading to marginalization Matt L. Drabek analyzes classification by considering rich case studies across a variety of domains including the classification of gender and sexual orientation the psychiatric classification of sadomasochism and gender disorders and the classification of people in everyday life through the production of pornography and use of gender identities This broad sample reveals deep connections between the classifications proposed by social scientists and the classifications used by society at large Drabek explores how classifications evolve from and eventually affect such seemingly disconnected issues as the situation of underrepresented groups in academia new models of parenting and the family the nature of sexual orientation and the nature of scientific bias

Judging Obscenity Christopher Jon Nowlin, 2003 This work examines evidence in North American obscenity trials revealing how little consensus there is among those who purport to know best about the nature of artistic representation human sexuality and the psychological and behavioural effects of digesting explicit sexual narratives and imagery
