Questions And Answers In The Practice Of Family Therapy:

Questions and Answers in the Practice of Family Therapy Alan S. Gurman, 1981      Questions & Answers in the Practice of Family Therapy Alan S. Gurman, 1981      Handbook of Family Therapy Training and Supervision Howard A. Liddle, Douglas C. Breunlin, Richard C. Schwartz, 1988-06-17

Over the last three decades family therapy has revolutionized the mental health field changing the way human problems are conceived and therapy is conducted. In concert with the dynamic growth of family therapy the field of family therapy training and supervision has also expanded enormously yielding many new ideas and skills. Yet until now few books have been devoted to it and no single volume has attempted to relate the full breadth of this growing field in terms of its conceptual and theoretical expansion as well as its practical application. HANDBOOK OF FAMILY THERAPY TRAINING AND SUPERVISION fills this need by presenting a truly comprehensive view of this dynamic area. To accomplish this broad yet in depth scope editors Liddle, Breunlin and Schwartz have assembled 30 highly acclaimed authorities to author chapters in their respective areas of expertise. For further clarification the editors have included segues that introduce and analyze each of the book's four major sections providing the reader with an overview of the section, highlights of themes that run through it, and discussion of the issues raised in a way that ties the chapters together. The book opens with a presentation of the unique and innovative approaches to training and supervision that have evolved in each separate school of family therapy. Offering a panoramic view of the entire field of family therapy these seven chapters allow for fascinating comparisons among the different schools regarding the process by which ideas about therapy evolve into training techniques and philosophies. Section II follows with an explication of the pragmatics of family therapy supervision. Helping family therapy trainers avoid and anticipate the common mistakes involved with supervision, the skills described in this section create an atmosphere conducive to learning and maintaining a working trainer-trainee relationship and finally for training of supervisors. Practical guidelines for using live and video supervision are included. Section III features family therapy trainers in such diverse fields as psychiatry, psychology, family medicine, social work, nursing, free standing and academic family therapy programs who describe the problems and advantages they encounter teaching these new ideas within their idiosyncratic contexts. The book closes with a section that includes reflections on the field by such innovative and respected leaders as Cloe Madanes and Jay Haley. Among topics covered are perspectives and recommendations for researchers, evaluating family therapy, practical advice for incorporating a cultural perspective into training programs, feedback on the experience of live supervision from trainees' perspectives. An appendix follows that provides over 400 references organized by subject for easy reference. Given the level and scope of this extraordinary text FAMILY THERAPY TRAINING AND SUPERVISION is an invaluable resource for anyone interested in teaching, learning or simply appreciating family therapy.

development framework is among the least studied in spite of its relevance to understanding spontaneous family change and to facilitating therapeutic intervention The notion that a developmental difficulty underlies the appearance of clinical symptoms has become a time honored tradition in family therapy just as it has been in individual therapy Yet unlike the well established and well researched models of child and adult development those in family development are rudimentary Despite increasing interest in the family life cycle as a framework for family therapy relatively little has been done to elucidate the specific dimensions and processes of spontaneous and therapeutically induced change over the family life cycle This volume gathers original contributions of some of the most prominent family theorists researchers and clinicians of our time to improve our understanding of these important and hitherto neglected domains The book opens with a comprehensive overview by the editor that outlines contributions to the family life cycle framework from family sociology and crisis theory This is followed by a comparative analysis of developmental thinking explicit or implicit in the theory and interventions of the major family therapy approaches Then divided into four parts FAMILY TRANSITIONS introduces new conceptual models that integrate the temporality of the life cycle approach with systems theory By their very nature these models cut across therapeutic orientations and have important clinical applications In Part II family therapy's views of development are freed from the confines of the therapist's office and placed in the context of other disciplines Chapters provide analysis of changing or static sociocultural values that can affect conceptions of development potential misuse of the concept of cultural identity in health mental health and education how family identity operates as a vehicle for cultural transmission over generations and family therapists' assumptions about women's development The role of expected and unexpected events in the family life cycle is the focus of Part III Chapters on clinical approaches geared to dislocations of life cycle occurrences due to unexpected crises chronic illnesses loss or drug abuse provide illustrations of interventions that utilize enhance or potentially detract from the family's developmental flow Part IV explores the articulation of the life cycle framework within four major family therapy orientations intergenerational structural systemic and symbolic experiential Each of these chapters endeavors to elucidate what is the place of family development in each orientation concepts of continuity and change use of the concept of stages transitions or developmental tasks the specific dimensions that change in most families over time and the links between family dysfunction and life cycle issues Finally each chapter illustrates through clinical example assessment strategies formulation of treatment goals and interventions as these emerge from a particular life cycle model FAMILY TRANSITIONS presents a significant advance in our understanding of functional and dysfunctional family development and offers a range of interventions to promote developmental change It is an invaluable resource for clinical psychologists psychiatrists social workers and counselors that will also interest human development professionals family sociologists and family researchers FAMILY TRANSITIONS can serve as a developmentally oriented textbook for teaching family therapy in academic and professional settings

Families and Larger Systems Evan Imber-Black, 1992-06-01 If individuals cannot adequately be understood without reference to the family system families themselves are comprehensible only in a broader social context FAMILIES AND LARGER SYSTEMS is the first single author book on families and larger systems designed specifically for the practicing therapist It offers rich descriptions of the difficulties families and larger systems often pose for one another presents a detailed assessment model for therapists and provides a careful interviewing format as well as

directions for designing creative interventions Imber Black offers a consultation model for dealing with families and larger systems who have become embroiled with one another and methods for longer term work with those families who must engage with larger systems across significant portions of their life cycle due to illness handicaps or poverty Problems of labeling stigma and secrecy in families are addressed and an entire chapter is devoted to women s issues in families and related systems Utilizing numerous case illustrations and interview excerpts Dr Imber Black first delineates the problems common to family larger system situations analyzing the origins of these interactions the assessment model and interviewing methods used and the design and implementation of intervention In the second half of her book she presents in depth discussions of strategies for improving the relationship between families and related systems Through concrete example and hands on analysis Imber Black shows how the misconceptions assumptions and subsequent labeling of family functioning and family members give rise to stalemated situations FAMILIES AND LARGER SYSTEMS provides a practical guide for all clinicians regardless of theoretical orientation Therapists who wish to maintain a career in public sector settings such as mental health clinics hospitals and schools will find in this volume direction for effective work with families and the maintenance of good working relationships with colleagues Therapists in private practice will discover that Imber Black s model will aid their conceptualization of cases that have involved multiple therapists or other practitioners Much of the material presented will also be useful to human services workers both professional and paraprofessional in welfare child welfare probation drug counseling schools and other institutions The book s ecological viewpoint which enables such professionals to see their own position in the system also helps them to avoid the traps of replicating existing patterns and to position themselves for therapeutic change Finally this book will be of interest to human service system administrators and program planners The case examples offer a seldom seen view of the struggles families and multiple helpers can have with one another while its theoretical models can be utilized to assess current inter systematic functioning among larger systems in a community with implications for program design and burn out prevention
