Russian Romantic Fiction:

Russian Romantic Fiction John Mersereau, 1983 Russian fiction was born in the age of Pushkin and in a remarkably short period of time the Russian novel became one of the glories of world literature This book tells part of the story of how this happened Of course Pushkin Gogol and Lermontov are the primary figures of the Romantic era and Mr Mersereau devotes many pages to them But it is the context of their works which is the main subject of this history the entire development of Russian prose from the start of the 19th century until 1852 This background makes the appearance of such masterpieces as Dead Souls A Hero of Our Time The Captain's Daughter and The Queen of Spades more understandable but none the less amazing Page 4 of cover

George Sand and the Nineteenth-century Russian Love-triangle Novels Dawn D. Eidelman, 1994 Mauprat features Edmee a self actualizing woman as hero protagonist Here the notion of fiction of relationship emerges as male Russian authors created tragic idealized woman characters who could never really live up to the terrible perfection with which they were endowed Reference Guide to Russian Literature Neil

Russian Love Stories Nadezhda L. Peterson, 2009 Russian Love Stories offers a broad range of narrative styles philosophical agendas and points of view from writers who insist on making love be it familial love or between strangers carnal or platonic real or imagined central in the lives of their characters Although all the authors represented were born in the Soviet period each was molded by a particular set of shared practices and beliefs and all offer a distinctive perspective on their experience The selections are evenly divided between men and women writers and those working in Russia or abroad This anthology is anchored in the period from the middle of the twentieth century to the present offering the reader an insider's view of Soviet and post Soviet life Yet the writer's position sometimes from within that time sometimes from the perspective of a backward glance at the past is emphatically that of an outsider

The Rise of the Russian Novel Richard Freeborn, 1973-01-04 This introduction to the study of the Russian novel demonstrates how the form evolved from imitative beginnings to the point in the 1860s when it reached maturity and established itself as part of the European tradition Professor Freeborn considers selected novels by Pushkin Lermontov Gogol Dostoyevsky and Tolstoy Extended introductory sections to the studies of Dostoyevsk and Tolstoy deal with their earlier works A final chapter summarises the principal points of contrast between Crime and Punishment and War and Peace and argues that in certain specific ways they represent the peaks in the evolution of the form of the Russian novel Quotations are translated but key passages are also given in the original Professor Freeborn treats the novel as a literary form and avoids the overworked formulae on which much historical writing on Russian literature has been based He is concerned with the literary development of a great form
